

The Lost and the Found

by The Dragon King

Category: How to Train Your Dragon

Genre: Adventure, Romance

Language: English

Characters: Astrid, Hiccup

Status: In-Progress

Published: 2013-07-11 22:35:16

Updated: 2014-11-26 05:42:35

Packaged: 2016-04-26 15:32:47

Rating: T

Chapters: 11

Words: 31,369

Publisher: www.fanfiction.net

Summary: Ky, an excellent warrior, befriends a powerful dragon, the Blitzkrieg as his village knows it or as Berk knows it, a Skrill. After his village finds out, he is almost killed and then banished. After flying through a terrible storm, he finds a new family in Berk, and possibly new love. Yet will his past try to interfere with his future? HiccupxAstrid and possible OCxRuffnut

1. Chapter 1

This is a new story i have been thinking of starting, enjoy.

Found

Ky, a young dirty blonde haired boy was setting up and getting ready for a raid in the middle of the night. It had been an uneventful night without a cloud in the sky. Then everything went downhill from there. The dragon masses have gotten larger recently that was right now unknown. Ky had a tough exterior and a fair build carrying two swords his grandfather got for his recent birthday and wore black and midnight blue dragon scale (not skin) armor and carried survival supplies with him just in case. He wore dark fur shoes that kept his feet warm where he lived. He was the tough looking, typical viking but with a higher intellect and much more curiosity. There was only two reasons why he wore what he did, that was outcast raids and dragons. The death of the dragons queen only seemed to push masses of dragons into the main land which is 50 miles east of their nest.

This area did not have a night fury to fend off the Blitzkrieg, but unknown by Ky, it is called the Skrill in Meridian of Misery Archipelago and on Berk. This dragon shoots streams of lightning or balls of energy. The dragon that attacks the village is a dark chrome blue color and is known for its bad temper. Not much is known about it due to people being killed on sight from this beast. That is why it is lucky for this area none have been sighted... so far.

Anyway, Ky gets ready to fend for his people being the best fighter for his age group and runs out the for to only run into a Nadder, which looks curious at him to only blast searing hot fire his way, which only lasted so long when Ky dodged it and landed a blow in the eye of the beast. It then screeched in pain and smacked Ky into a wall with its tail. Before he could get up, the Nadder flew away. That was then when Ky notice the sounds of a battle erupt around him. His uncle then came behind him grabbed him. "You know your father would kill me if he knew his son was fighting dragons at age 15."

"Well he is not alive to kill you, is he. Nor is my mother."

"Well get inside I smack you over the head with my hammer."

"I can fend for myself, I don't need to be babied anymore. I can fight..."

That was when Ky noticed it, the fire gleaming off a fast flying object coming right for him. Without thinking, Ky pushed his uncle to the ground and the lightning stuck the building right in front of him. The shock wave of the blast sent Ky flying and hitting a tree. Ky lifted his head to see a net laying on the ground. He got up and grabbed it and got ready for the beast to come for another strike. He then located the dragon that he could only guess was the Blitzkrieg (AKA Skrill just so you know) heading straight for him. He got ready for the beast to strike. He saw the sign and threw the net which caught it. I was going so fast that it plunged right into Ky and they flew down the valley into a forest. The last thing Ky remember was too getting caught in the net and hitting the ground first and rolling. The last thing he heard was men shouting his name.

* * *

>The sound of wildlife filled the air as the light filled the valley, birds chirping and the rustling of shrubs as deer walked through them. The only thing out of the ordinary was a dragon and teen caught together in a net. The first to wake however was Ky. He woke up groggy and had no idea where he was, until he felt some of his body next to a large warm mass. He then got up and it took him 5 minutes to untangle himself and get his hair out of his eyes. He looked around and saw the blue mass that he must have slept next to for the ending hours of the night. It was indeed the Blitzkrieg. He pulled his sword out with his right hand to only have it sting like hell so he dropped it. When he looked down at his right hand, it was indeed purple and blue showing that it was broken. "Uncle is going to be so happy knowing I broke my hand capturing a dragon."

When he looked up he saw the blue eye he was expecting looking back at him. He grabbed one of the sword quickly with his left hand and took time to examine the dragon. It had a triangular-ish head and had seven small, sharp spikes poking out the back of its head. It was injured at the base of its wing due to the rope ripping at its body during impact. The blood that seeped out of the wound was purple-red. Its body type was exactly like the Night Furys except it did not have tail fins. Ky then looked at the eye ready to take the life of this creature. Yet when he looked in the eye of this beast, he did not see endless destruction and death that he thought that he would see. He only saw the pain that the dragon was in. Then a thought came to mind, "I can't believe I am even thinking about doing this." The dragon closed its eye ready to meet its doom only to hear the blade coming down and cutting the rope.

When the last strand to free the Blitzkrieg was then cut, the Dragon leaped onto the boy to only grab the swords with its paws and threw them a good 50 feet away. The dragon then looked at the boy with no hate. but observed him with curiosity. The Dragon the saw him no threat and lifted his paw off of him. Ky backed against a tree and started to take a hidden blade out of his belt. The dragon saw this as a threat and started to snarl until Ky grabbed the blade and showed it fully. The dragon started to lift both wings up until it grunted due to the pain. Ky then chucked the blade a good distance away and the dragon lowered its wings with difficulty. Ky got up to get a closer look at the wing, yet the dragon backed away with a cautious look in its eyes. He took a step closer and the dragon only backed away further and expanded its wings and attempted to fly. The only made it 5 ft. off the ground when it came crashing down again. The dragon huffed in anger. "You either trust me, or you can never fly again."

The seemed to weigh its options and Ky stuck his handout a mere inch away from the dragons snout. It tried to sense any hostility in the boy but came up with nothing. The dragon completed the bond by touching the boys hand and when Ky felt this, he looked up and so did the Blitzkrieg. He pulled out a small bottle with clear liquid in it. Ky opened it up and started to pour it all over the wound and its started to sizzle. Ky then took some medical bandages and applied all of it and wrapped it around the wound located at the base of he wing. When Ky was finished the dragon nudges him in the stomach and showed its appreciation. Just as that was done, the stomach of both of them started to growl with the need of food. "How about I got grab some food from home." All the dragon did was grunt in agreement.

* * *

>With Ky

Ky walked for a while through the woods and look at awe at how far he traveled from the village located at a top of a large hill. When he made it back to the village, he snuck back to his home and opened the door. He peered through the crack of the door and saw that no one was home. He walked in and grabbed a basket of fish and was starting to head out when his Uncle came through the door. "Uncle... I was just getting ready tooooooo... Go for a camping trip."

"Your going camping with a basket of fish and nothing else? That seems a little radical even with your broken hand, isn't it"

"You know that I was going to grab other things for my trip, and you noticed my broken hand?"

"You flew out of your village, I expected a little more than just a broken hand. Anyway, what about that dragon. Did it get away? Did you kill it?"

"It-It got away. I was out last night searching for it and came up with nothing. I should get going, I need to set up so i have time before the cold weather sets in and I regret it."

"Sure, sure. Just one thing, bring go down to the healers and grab some medical supplies you may need on this trip."

"No Prob."

With all of that said, Ky left his uncle alone and started to head to the healers. As he approached the healers quarters, a young lady was leaving the building. "Is the healer there? I need to go grab some medical supplies for my camping trip I am taking."

The young lady answered, "She is available for whatever you may need."

"Thank you." Ky then walked into the building and saw the healer sitting in a chair by the wall. She was small and an elder for some time. "How may I help you child."

"I am here to get some medical supplies. Do you have any that I may use for the time being?"

"Only if you give me something in return, an errand perhaps." He old voice sent shivers down his spine. "I need you to send these herbs down to my apprentice so she may study them for future use."

"I will do that right now." Ky grabbed the herb the healer picked up and the grabbed all that he need for the trip, including the most important item he needed, stitching equipment. With that, he nodded showing his appreciation and left to find the apprentice. It only took him five minutes to find the young lady. He approached her and said nothing as he gave her the herbs.

"Thank you." After that was said he stopped and was about to look around, yet he did not. Ky just kept walking til the end of the village and entered the forest.

* * *

>It took Ky 30 minutes to locate the Blitzkrieg again, it was resting when it heard the young boy again. This time he had a familiar scent that he carried with him. It was the intoxicating smell of fish. Ky then laid down the basket and kicked it to the ground for the dragon to enjoy. Yet he did not prepare for the reaction the dragon gave. It grabbed the first fish and fling it towards Ky. Ky caught it and looked at the fish and gave a questioning look back to the dragon. The dragon then motioned towards it and licked his lips. "No-no-no-no-nooooo. I am not going to eat a raw fish." All the dragon did was lick its lips again and chomped down on the air. The boy just shrugged and thought 'What could go wrong'. Ky took a big bite out of the side of the fish and almost gagged it out. He then swallowed with all of his force and succeeded. It sent shivers down his spine from the taste. He then threw the fish back at the dragon and it snapped in its mouth.

The dragon started towards the fish and Ky went towards the injured wing. "Spread your wing as best as you can so I can seal the wound." The dragon spread its wing and Ky took off its bandage. The wound healed a little and the liquid he poured on it kept it from getting infected. This made Ky think, all he has been calling the dragon was

'Blitzkrieg' or just 'it'. So he decide to give him a name.

"So I've been thinking. Would you mind if I give you name?" All the dragon did was lift his head out of the fish basket and nudge the boy.

"Would the name Stormshadow work, it seems like a nice name with you being the beast of the storm."

The dragon finished his basket of fish and looked at his young human with a accepting expression. "Glad you like it." The rest of the afternoon was spent laying down enjoying each others company.

* * *

>That would be the end of chapter 1, which I hope you liked. Review and give me comments on what you think so far. I would deeply appreciate your opinion, well if it is positive on my story. Also Fav. and Follow.

Next chapter, we take a look at Berk and all the characters you all like. Maybe something will happen...

Thanks, The Dragon King **

2. Chapter 2

So I hope all of you enjoyed chapter 1, I also saw that a couple of people favored it and that it is being followed. Yet as of now, no one has reviewed it, which I really wanted to see. This chapter is in berk, enjoy.

* * *

>New Love?

Light shined over all of the home in Berk. The frost on the ground was thawing and the warmth woke up people with a pleasant surprise. Yet one boy wasn't woken by the heat of the sun, but by a lick to the face. "Toothless, I'm up, I'm up." With that the dragon stopped and started jumping around and went to find his prosthetic tail and saddle. Once he looked around a while he found it and took it to Hiccup. "You ready for our morning flight i see." Toothless jumped around and confirmed that he wanted to be in the clouds.

Hiccup headed downstairs with an excited dragon behind him. Stoick noticed him and greeted him for the morning. "Mornin' son, see you're going for a flight this morning."

"Yep, Toothless woke me up. We are heading out for a while. I'm going to grab some bread before we leave."

Hiccup headed to find bread in one of the storage boxes he grabbed a loaf and headed out the back door. He putting in his mouth and started to set up the fake tail fin and saddle ready for a flight. He then chomped down on the bread and got on to the saddle and with that, Toothless took to the skies as fast as a bullet. He twirled in the air and leveled out. He and Toothless felt synchronize as the flew through the clouds above Berk. The he got an idea that need they could both work on. "Toothless, free fall time." They took off up in the air higher until it was hard to breath. Hiccup undid he safety strap and took out his prosthetic. He jumped off Toothless and the went head first towards the earth. He looked at each other with Hiccup smiling and Toothless's attempt to smile. After a good long minute, Hiccup hooked himself back on his dragon hand the slowed the descend towards the ground. They then touched down on a hill just outside the village.

Hiccup got off Toothless and took out his sketch book and started to draw the display in front of him, it was just breathtaking. There was no clouds in the sky and the sun made the horizon have a tint of orange. The birds were everywhere and so were the terrible terrors. He also wanted Toothless at the side of the drawing so he told him to scoot over. Toothless gave him his best pose with his ears up and had a toothless smile that was so famous. He soon finished his last details and he heard the sound of wings flapping behind him. He turned around to see an even more beautiful sight, Astrid. He loved how her hair flowed in the wind as she flew, it was breathtaking in itself. He also missed what she just said.

Astrid, "Hello, Hiccup. Are you paying attention? I asked what you are doing."

"Sorry, I'm just drawing the view. Why did you come out here?"

"I was just coming to find you." That confused Hiccup. Why did she come to find him?

"What did Snotlout and the twins do this time?"

"Nothing that I know of. I just came to hang with you. May I see your drawing?" Hiccup handed her his sketchbook and she observed the drawing. The drawing surprised her, it was elegant down to the finest details. She was out of breath, it was that good. She was about to give back the sketchbook when a page fell out of the book and at her feet. She picked it up and saw what it was, and started to blush. It was a picture of her with her bangs in her eyes slight smile on her face. The picture also includes her with her dragon with she was petting it. "When did you do this?"

Hiccup looked up and saw what she was holding, he blushed a deep red, "I-uhhh drew th-that not to long ago."

"I never posed for this, how did you do this?"

"Well I kept an image in my mind what you looked like. Can I have that back?" She gave him the drawing and she noticed something in her heart that she never noticed before. She care for him. She was going to say something to break the awkward silence but instead she just turned around and started to leave. In her mind she was beating herself for it. She was never good with her... feelings. Yet when she was about to climb on to her dragon, Hiccup spoke up. "Do you mind if I take you to another place with a great view. We could bring food with us or eat before we good. Yet if you don't want to then-."

"Hiccup, I would love to come along. Just let me grab a couple of things before we go."

Hiccup, "Sounds good, we should meet up back here in half and hour."

* * *

>Both of the teens grabbed what they needed for the picnic they were going to want such as foods and fish for their dragons. After taking care of packing what they wanted, they met up at the same place that Hiccup said to meet up. Astrid saw the clearing at the back of her dragon and saw Hiccup waiting for her at the top of the clearing. She flew down and met up with him and he asked, "Are you ready to head out?"

"Yep I'm ready for 'our date'." She was teasing him and wanted to see how dark his face could get.

"Umm- this is- well- is this a date?" He was blushing but so was Astrid. Astrid still on her dragon came up with a great idea. "Race ya. Ready, set, go!"

"Astrid, I'm not even prepared. You don't even know where we are going." Astrid kept going like she didn't hear him. Hiccup jumped on his dragon with a chuckly and sped after her. He was coming in hot on her tail and tried to pass but she wouldn't get out of the way. "Hey, no fair. Is Astrid Hofferson cheating?"

"Nope, your just not getting ahead of me." That didn't last long when Hiccup corkscrewed over her and took the lead. After having their fun, Hiccup lead the way to the location. As he landed he pulled out the food from a satchel that he carried it in. All that he took was large pieces of mutton and a loaf of bread. He also got some fish to feed Toothless with and maybe he would heat some up and eat some himself. Astrid then landed and started to take out other foods she wanted to eat and wanted Hiccup to try out. They sat down next to each other in awkward silence. The only things that broke the silence was Toothless and Stormfly eating the fish that they brought.

"Hiccup, you have to try this." She handed him over what looked like a red shell around a long leg.

"What is this?"

"It is crab, I got some one day flying a couple of miles away from here on a small beach. It tastes good." Hiccup peeled of a section of shell and dug into the meaty insides. Flavor enveloped his taste buds and he became very eager and started to crave it. He peeled away the hard shell in large sections and engulfed all off it. "I take it that you like it."

"Mmmhmmmm." Astrid just laughed at Hiccup as he gave her a goofy smile. That signature smile is what she loved the most about him, other than what he is like. He isn't like the other guys. He doesn't, in some terms, try to get in her pants. He isn't self centered and he thinks about others more than he does himself. In a great way, he is different. That was when Hiccup asked a question that involved part of the reason he was here.

"May I draw you and also capturing the scenery?" She grew a slight smile and nodded. Hiccup took out his charcoal and pulled out his notebook. He flipped to a new page and looked up before starting. "I don't want you to move a muscle, it needs to be to a point of perfection."

"Am I aloud to talk?"

"Yes, conversation would be nice."

"Then I can do this." Hiccup placed the charcoal on the page and started to sketch. Hiccup would occasionally look up to see the details that he had to put in. Silence was once again in the air until Hiccup spoke up.

"Are you starting to cramp up, you have been sitting like that for 20 minutes."

"A little, it doesn't matter though." The conversation didn't last long.

"Does Snotlout still flirt with you like he usually does?"

"Ya." She sighed out the answer. "He will always flirt until two things either happen. One, he finally gets what he wants and I date him, which won't happen. Two, I go out with someone else and he leaves me alone, that's the side that I would prefer."

Hiccup and Astrid would talk about other stuff like life at home with their parents and training tomorrow with their dragons. Soon Hiccup was finished his drawing. It only took him 3 hours to do. "Finished, finally it is complete."

"May I take a look at it?" Hiccup gave her the drawing still looking at it and she gasped. "It looks beautiful." Hiccup looked up to see Astrid looking into his eyes with the eyes he loved so much. He almost melted into them. She then attacked his lips with her own. This wasn't like the other kisses, this had more passion on both sides. They both broke for air and Hiccup commented, "Well I guess this solves the Snotlout problem."

Astrid laughed and the both then grew deeps shades of red at what they did. Then someone behind the cleared their throat and they both looked around hoping it wasn't Snotlout. They saw it was someone else and released their breaths. It was only Ruffnut, but then they turned red again. Hiccup broke the awkwardness, "Did you see all that?"

"The entire thing." She smirked at this. "I was coming to find Astrid so we could go to the market together like she said she would. I was coming to get her until I saw you guys talking and then making out seeing how far it would go."

Astrid, "I'm going to kill you, but for now we should get going. Bye Hiccup." She kissed on the lips one last time and got on Stormfly. She took to the air along with Ruffnut. "Where is Tuffnut? You guys always ride together."

"He's with Snotlout. They are hanging together a bit more." They kept flying towards the village. "So your with Hiccup now it seems."

"I guess you could say that." She had a small smile take over her lips. "Do you have a special guy you look at."

Ruffnut signed, "No, I don't. Not anytime soon, My mother was planning on me going to find someone from another clan and marry. Yet I don't want to do that, I want to stay here in Berk."

"Then I will help you when you find the special someone, that is a promise." That lightened the mood a bit as Ruffnut smiled and they continued back to Berk. Ruffnut and Astrid have gotten closer as they shared some interests and Ruffnut wanted to throw an ax better.

"I thank you Astrid for cheering me up a little. Tuff could never do that for me."

They had the peaceful flight back to go to the market.

* * *

>Short chapter, I know. Review so I may improve my writing skills, Glad that I found some reviews and I read them. Still need more of everything. Next chapter, again with Ky yet in sad times. Uncle gets sick with terminal illness and his dragon is found, what excitement. Fav and Follow if you would. Thanks.

The Dragon King **

3. Chapter 3

I Have been very lazy lately, I just am not writing this story until I decided to do today. I also appreciate that comments I got including constructive criticism I got. Enjoy this chapter. **

>

* * *

>It has been a couple days since Ky has been camping. His bond with His dragon has strengthened dramatically and the wound on Stormshadow's wing was healing without a problem. Then one of Ky's most exciting days came, and that was riding his dragon. It was his last day of camping and he camped for 2 weeks. Ky was not to happy to leave his new friend and was going to enjoy the day until 3 in the afternoon when he had to head home. His dragon insisted for him to do something amazing that he had not expected or thought of. While Ky was getting ready for fishing, his dragon grabbed him by the back of his clothing and flipped him over his head on to his back. At first Ky was dazed and didn't know what has gotten into his friend. That was until his dragon extended his massive wings and took to the air.

Ky was both thrilled and terrified. He was holding on his dragons neck for dear life because he had nothing else to hang on to. His dragon grunted and he opened his eyes slowly and was amazed to see so much beauty in the clouds around him. He, never paying attention to the sky, always trained and basically never relaxed since his uncles illness that has struck him about a year ago. Yet now he was able to do that now with possibly the only friend he has attempted to make. He closed his eyes and enjoyed the wind that pushed his blonde hair back. His dragon did a slight bank right and he was not quite ready for it flinched. His dragon looked back at him.

"Sorry, I've never been this high off the ground and I'm not exactly in the safest position. Its quite new to me."

His dragon gave an understanding nod. Ky tilted to the right and his dragon cooperated and turned right. They did many more easy turns and even did one flip which Ky think was an accomplishment yet Stormshadow just rolled his eyes when his rider did some celebrating gestures. They almost forgot to catch the fish and they went to a shore to do so before his dragon almost dove into the water as Ky described to his dragon "_About to kill them both." _Ky pulled out a small spear that was tucked on his back. He jumped into the water and stood there watching the water intensely and his dragon watched him with curious and observant eyes. He couldn't understand why he was so interested in watching the water. Ky then spotted movement by his left leg from a school of small fish and used lightning fast reaction to catch the fish. Khutu then got up and mimicked what Ky, in his mind, was doing. The dragon then smacked the water with his wing and ended up soaking Ky. He was give a annoyed look until Ky splashed him back in the face. They ended up getting in a playful fight until Ky got smacked in the face with Stormshadow's wing sending him flying into the water.

"This was fun until you brought your 'lethal' tools into it."

His dragon snorted at the remark as if saying 'yeah, whatever you say'. "How about we go for a long flight before I have to return to the village."

His dragon was jumping with joy and his blue eyes filled with much light and power. Ky got up and jumped on his dragons back. "I think I'm ready this time." His dragon flew up into the air while doing aerial corkscrews over and over again until the leveled out. "I'm less ready." His dragon only smiled at his remark and did more complicated tricks than before and even went into a cave even against Ky's arguing and uncertainty. They were having fun and it seemed that it would last forever.

The time came when they needed to land and head back to the village. The sun barely went over the sea and the sky had a purple and orange hue to it. Stormshadow nudged him as if telling him to be careful. Ky hugged the dragons head and felt weird being this attached to anything especially something he was taught was evil since he could remember. This realization just made him want to leave his village and leave somewhere with his dragon. Yet he couldn't just leave his uncle, he needed him. He picked up all of his stuff and began his short journey back to his home. It took him longer than usual since Ky couldn't see where he was going. He soon saw the light through the forest and made it out into the opening of his village. Yet when he was a little ways from his home, he saw the healer leave the front of his home. He jogged up to them, "Whats going on? Is my uncle ok?"

"I am afraid he is not, his illness has gotten worse and he will not have much time. I say he has about 4 days at max."

Ky, soon jogged through the door and went right to his uncles small room. His uncle was pale and looked very small. He knelt down by his uncle who looked as if he was swimming in the furs that kept him warm. "Uncle, what happened?"

"This morning, i was going to the market in the square and then all of the sudden I-i just couldn't move and i just collapsed. People rushed to me and I blacked out. I understand that I don't have much time and I need to let you know something. You strongest component is not your skill or your athletics. Its what comes within, your mind is what is strongest about you, never forget that." Ky just looked lost and deep in thought. He looked into his uncles gray, half dead eyes. All Ky could do was nod then got up and left.

Ky couldn't sleep well only thinking of his uncles health and Stormshadow. There was a conflict happening inside of Ky, he just wanted to leave the village but would his uncle really want that? This thinking only led to what his uncle said earlier, 'your strongest component is not your skill or your athletics. Its what comes within, your mind is whats strongest about you, never forget that'. Ky had no idea what he was talking about, yet his uncle was very wise in the village, almost became an elder in the village. Ky then passed out and dreamed of only blackness.

* * *

>He's gone. He passed midday two days after his last words to him. when Ky was heading to the market and then go over to the healers shack to grab her. When he got home, his uncle seemed to be in a peaceful sleep that he will never wake from. When Ky knew that he was gone, he was sad and was haunted by those words. The only he could do was go to his dragon.

His walk there was long and dreadful. It was like stones were tied to his ankles and his movements were sluggish and his only attachment to his home was gone. Yet he still feels he needs to stay though, it would be as if he is just abandoning his people. He made it to his dragon in to the small clearing. His dragon jumped up and was lightly running to him full of excitement until he noticed his face. Stormshadow's happiness faded in an instant and came up to Ky carefully. Ky looked up slowly. "I'm fine bud, I just need a flight to take my mind off things."

He jumped on his dragons back, yet there was no speedy take off, it was slower than usual. It seemed that his dragon was absorbing his pain. They were just taking a nice flight and did no great tricks or anything. Ky then spotted a clearing overlooking the ocean off of a ridge. They turned towards it and when they landed, Stormshadow just laid down and got ready to take a nap. Ky rested his head on his dragons stomach and faded into unconsciousness.

He woke up nicely and it seemed to be the beginning night. He got up and stretched his backed earning a couple of pops. He never realized how uncomfortable his armor really is. His commotion woke Stormshadow which stretched his wings. When his dragon was done with his stretching. Ky got on his back and they took to the air. The night breeze hit his face which send some chills down his spine and into his hands. The night was calm as they when through the night it was as if they could hear the silence breath through the air. They landed in the small clearing where Stormshadow lived. Ky got off his dragon and was starting to walk away. His dragon followed him curious to see if his alright.

"No, no. You can't follow me, they will attack you if you make your way into the village."

His dragon grumbled in response and still had seemed that he would follow.

"I am fine, I will be back here tomorrow." Stormshadow nodded and picked out a place to lay down in. Ky's life was about to completely fall apart, for both his dragon and him didn't notice the two hunters hiding in the trees watching them. "The chief has got to hear this now. Ky has just betrayed the village."

* * *

>Ky was walked home feeling a little better than before. His dragon really made him feel better, his mood changed and he would probably just spend the whole day tomorrow flying around improving his skill on the back of a dragon. He entered the village and some of the people working late even said hello to him. They must have noticed his distress earlier and had a little sympathy for him. He made it to his home and opened the door to the dark, cold entrance. It seemed the room had been organized and some smoldering embers have been left in the fireplace. Ky put some wood on in the fireplace and finished relighting the fire. He went over to his bed and prepare for night. He took off his weapons and placed his two swords by the bed. He then took off the armor yet kept on the under clothing of it on like he usually did. He laid down and looked towards the sealing and laid motionless. A lot of things have changed his life recently. Him becoming friends with a fearsome dragon and his uncle had passed. The worst and best points of his life, well not the worst point. Ky then dozed off into peaceful.

* * *

>There was a bang nearby and Ky flew out of his bed. He grabbed his armor as quick as possible and grabbed his two swords. He looked around the corner and saw two warriors go into his uncles room. "He not in here, he must be in the other room."

Ky knew they were talking about him. He was curious about what they were after him for, he had done nothing wrong. Hell, his uncle had just died. He jumped out his small window and started to run towards the wood yet he was then confronted by some men. He turned around and saw the village chief walk towards him with his giant mace in his hands. "I really didn't expect you of all people to betray your village."

"What are you talking about? I have done nothing wrong."

"Incorrect, you have committed treason against your village by allying with the beasts. Especially one that has killed so many of us."

Ky had to act fast. He was surrounded by the citizens though but he found a weak link in the group where slower middle age men were standing and all they had were wood planks. He ran towards them full speed and when one of them were about to strike he ducked and hit one of them as hard as he could with the side of his sword in his leg. A satisfying crack came after contact and he took off towards the forest and he soon entered. Ky weaved in and out of trees as fast as he could. The men close behind yet the sound of them were moving farther and farther away. He saw the clearing where his escape would be. He saw his dragons sleeping figure in some grass. He used his fingers and whistled for his dragon to wake. Khutu shot up and looked fully alert. He stretching out as Ky was sprinting towards him. Two arrows whizzed by his left arm Ky looked back to see that they drew crossbows and were firing at him. He went even faster until a agonizing pain went into his right thigh. It didn't matter though, he still had to keep moving. He made it to his dragon and took off towards the sky once he got on. The last words he could hear was from the chief. "I will find you and I will kill you!"

* * *

>Ky and Stormshadow were flying for a while and adrenaline was what kept them going. Ky was in otter shock and it was starting to go down as he was starting to feel unbearable pain in his thigh was starting to come. He looked down and noticed that an arrow was sticking in his leg, how did he not notice that? He was very relieved to leave that village and travel with his friend to places, he couldn't wait. But his thoughts had to stop as he was pulling out the arrow. Good thing it didn't have the edges on the back end of or it would be even worse. As he tugged if out, it was as if the sun had been placed in his leg. I was on fire and he felt like screaming at the top of his lungs. It finally came out and he threw the arrow behind him to be taken be the fast moving wind.

"Where do you think was should go?"

His dragon only shrugged at his question. Ky made a small groan as he did this and focused forward. What he saw was not good at all. A huge storm was right ahead of him and the wind was starting to pick at this. His dragon tried to turn away from the fast approaching cloud yet it was futile. They lost control and were spinning around a vortex that formed in the center of the huge cloud and swung like rag dolls. The last thing that Ky could see was a fast approaching beach and then his dragons wings enclosed him and then came the impact. Him and his dragon passed out cold.

* * *

>Well that took me long enough i bet. I hope that I can work on this more often yet I cannot as school has screwed up my scheduled enough. Anyway don't be afraid to comment and even favor this story. I understand that I have a lot of work to do to become to end writers. Tell me anything I should do to add to the plot and theme of the story, you guys are the ones reading it.

The Dragon King

4. Chapter 4

I decided to get this stared as soon as possible due to how many views I got over night. The setting is now in Berk. Keep on favoring and reviewing my story.

* * *

>Berk

Hiccup woke when the sun did. He felt the sun's rays hit his face and give him energy that would last him the day. He stretched his joints from a soar day of flying through the skies during the storm the passed over last night. He was trying to perfect his wind flying abilities along with Toothless. They were both confident that one day they would sail right through the wind. Yet last night was not one of those times. It ended up Toothless was pushed around by the strong winds so much they crashed into a field and created a big crater. Was not at all fun.

His developing relationship was going very well. Snotlout was not at all pleased. When Ruffnut decided to tell all of their friends in front of both of them, Snotlout almost exploded. Astrid didn't attack Ruffnut as Hiccup predicted. Tuffnut gave Hiccup a high five after hearing this and Fishleg congratulated both of them politely.

Anyway, Hiccup jumped out of bed and headed downstairs. He saw his dad about to leave and turned around just in time to see his son. "Mornin son. I'm heading out ta do some diplomacy. It seems the two guys are fighting over land again."

"Okay, I'm heading to the Smithy to finish some of the weapons I put off until today. Then I am going to be out with Astrid."

Stoick nodded at this and shut the door with force. Toothless headed down the stairs and stared at Hiccup as if questioning what he was doing. "I'm heading to the Smith to get some weapons finished and then we will fly with Astrid later, how does that sound?" His dragon went to the fire place and laid down getting ready to take a nap. Hiccup then slipped out the door.

The air sent a nice, warm feeling around his body and he headed down the hill towards his destination. His walk was intercepted by Astrid and she greeted him with a smile. "Hey Hiccup, you ready for our little flight later?"

"Of course I am, I just need to finish up some weapons before we do that."

"Sound good. I will be waiting until then." She gave him a quick peck on the lips after she looked to see if no one was looking and continued on her way. 'I will never get use to that' Hiccup said to himself. He made it to the Smith and saw Gobber working on what seemed a very detailed sword. "About time ya made it. The pile of weapons only grow in ya absence." Hiccup put on his apron and started to get to work. Hiccup's signature body type was starting to change as he was growing both by height and by his muscles just by a bit. He filled in more than his dad had anticipated. He started with his least favorite thing, a war hammer that needed a replaced shaft. He groaned to himself and got to work.

* * *

>He had been working for a couple of hours before Gobber decided that he was good for the day. In that amount of time, he was able to repair 19 weapons, shields and armor, which was a good start from the pile. Hiccup headed home in pursuit of Toothless so that Astrid and him could get on with there flight. He opened the door and Toothless lifted his and peered at Hiccup. He all of the sudden got really excited and ran upstairs to grab his flight gear. Hiccup followed him upstairs. In his mouth, Toothless brought Hiccup the gear and he started to assemble it along Toothless.

Hiccup and Toothless went outside and took to the skies before landing right in front of Astrid's house. She came out after a minute of waiting and went to Stormfly's little home. She woke her up and jumped on her back and they walked over to Toothless and Hiccup. Hiccup, "You ready to head out?"

"I've been ready since this morning, how was the forge?"

"It seemed like a long morning in there. Fixing and cleaning weapons for the entire morning does not seem fun to me."

"Well what does seem fun right now is taking a nice, leisurely flight."

Hiccup smiled, "Agreed." Hiccup did a vertical takeoff and did a small twist before Astrid could get her dragons feet off of the ground. She then followed him to the skies and they went for the clouds until they were encased in it. Hiccup was doing complex flips and twist and did a small victory. Astrid giggled at his little jester and continued to do some of her own tricks. Hiccup soon leveled out. "Man, its good to spread my wings finally today."

Toothless snorted. "Sorry, I mean your wings." Toothless looked forward with a smug look on his face.

"I agree Hiccup. I have been waiting for get into the air since this morning with you."

After flying in circles playing a failed attempt at tag, they decided to land on a small field that would be a perfect place for rest. Hiccup unhooked his prosthesis and went to Astrid. "That game of tag didn' go as well as I predicted."

"Of course. we are flying on dragons and its not exactly easy to touch someone when they are flying at high speeds."

"Hey I got you."

"That's because i zoned out for a second."

"Mmmhmm. Of course you did."

Astrid punched him in the arm which he held instantly. It doesn't sting like it use to yet he did it to make Astrid feel better and so that she really didn't hit him. "That is for you sarcasm." She then locked her lips with his. "And that is for your small victory." Hiccup gave a small grin. He then pulled her close to him. How did he become so lucky. He use to be weak and useless and now he has the most gorgeous girl in the village hanging on his arms. How could life get any better. They then laid on the grass and their dragons went to give them privacy.

They laid back and looked at the heavens as it passed over their heads. They pointed to the clouds and said what they looked like as they passed over. They were enjoying the company of one another until the saw a person flying slowly towards them with 'urgent' written all over his face. It was clear that the person was Fishlegs as his dragon landed with a great thud against the ground. "Fishlegs, so nice of you to, umm, join us," Hiccup exclaimed.

"Hiccup. Astrid. I need to talk to you right now."

"Fishlegs, it can't be that important. Yet you interrupted us so it must be."

"Hiccup... I-i found a person down at the beach."

"What is so important about that."

"It seems that he was riding a dragon. And the best part is it is a species that looks really familiar, never seen on Berk." Hiccup stood up really quickly. He looked towards Astrid, back to Fishlegs and the Astrid again. She gave him an annoyed look yet gave him a gesture that he may leave. He jumped on the back of Toothless and took to the skies. Hiccup was following Fishlegs as they went to see where the visitors had crashed. They started to descend as they were reaching their destination at the beach. They cleared the forest and Hiccup got a glance at the impact. There was a long groove in the sand the reached where the grass started to grow. At the end of it laid a midnight blue dragon that was close to the size of Toothless. It laid unconscious in the sand.

About twenty feet laid a male about the same age as them. He had darker blonde hair that would cover most of his eyes and wore black armor. He had swords strapped to his back and looked bit beat up. He had many lacerations on his right arm and leg that would need to be stitched up yet he seemed to be breathing. They both landed and took a walk towards them until the dragon started to stir into the conscious world. Its eye shot open as it growl when it got up. It got up and saw the two vikings thinking that they were posing as a threat. It opened its mouth and an amazing thing happened. An electrical current went to the tips of its horns and then it shot a stream of electricity towards the two. It missed the barely and Toothless jumped in front of the two,. They rawred at each other and got ready to fire at one another.

"Toothless, No!"

It was too late as they fired at each other and the blasts clashed together. There was a small yet powerful explosion that vaporized the ground between them and sent the teens rolling a ways. Both dragons were now unconscious and laid on the ground. Hiccup and Fishlegs got up off of the ground and looked at the area between the dragons. The grass incinerated and a crater was left in the ground. Hiccup then looked over towards the hostile dragon. Hiccup knew exactly what dragon that was. It is the infamous Skrill. "I thought they were untamable ."

Fishlegs then looked at the dragon. "Is that a Skrill? I thought they couldn't be tamed yet here is one protecting a human."

"Fishlegs we need to to focus a bit, what do we do now?"

"Well we should probably bring him back to Berk and to the healers, and with the dragon we should probably bring him too."

"Well we can't leave him out loose around the village, he will tear it apart."

"Good point."

"Yet I can't just chain him up like an animal either."

The boys looked at each other getting an idea at the same time by the ways their faces moved in almost unison. Fishlegs got Meatlug to fill her mouth with water so they could wake Toothless from his slumber. When water made contact, his head sprang up and looked at Hiccup with his ears extended to the sky. "Okay bud, were heading back home." Hiccup climbed up onto Toothless just as Fishlegs secured Ky (I really hope you know its him by now) to his Gronkle. The dragons lifted into the air and hovers over the unconscious dragon before they picked it off of the ground.

* * *

>They soon made it back to the village to see an anxious Stoick waiting for them. They landed the Skrill (aka Blitzkrieg) onto the ground before the grounded themselves. Stoick walked up to Hiccup as he dismounted his dragon. "Son, I've heard you went out to get a beached survivor yet Astrid never told me about a dragon."

"Well there is a dragon also."

Stoick gave him a little annoyed look. "Fine but where are you going to put that dragon then?"

Fishlegs stepped forward this time speaking up his voice. "We were going to put him in the arena, so he isn't suffocated yet not free."

Stoick grunted in confirmation and they boys began to take the dragon to the arena and then they would carry Ky to the healers. They landed the dragon in the arena with a thud on the ground. The dragon was starting to awaken so they ran out of the arena in an instant and closed the gates. The dragon leaped up and was confused where it was until got out of its daze and started to snarl. It shot a stream of lightning into the cage which sent electrical currents through it. The boys and dragons ran away as the rawrs of the dragon carried on.

* * *

>Ky's eyes were fluttering open as he regained consciousness yet he was groggy and had no idea where he was. He was about to get up off of the bed that he was about to climb off of yet a walking stick laid on his chest prevented him from getting up. An old woman was holding the walking stick and he looked confusedly at her. That was when everything rushed back in an instant, his escape, his flight, the storm, the crash and his... "He looked at her in worry.

"Where am I?" He said this in a panic voice yet it was not the old lady who answered.

"Welcome to Berk." Ky looked over to see a skinny dark red headed boy missing a leg standing in the doorway.

* * *

>Well that is the chapter, unfortunately. Yes I know it is not much for how long I have been gone. There has been a crazy time period between my stuff being stolen and the amount of homework I get is unbelievable. All I wish is for some favorites and comments on how you like my story. This is also my Christmas (or Holiday) gift to all of you. Thanks for reading.

The Dragon King

5. Chapter 5

Here it is

* * *

>Ky and Hiccup took their leave from the healers hut and started to head back down to the village. Ky, feeling a it more comfortable started to talk to Hiccup. "I've heard of this village. My village called it the disgrace of the world and the betrayer of the vikings."

Hiccup looked over toward Ky with a raised eyebrow. "How are we a disgrace towards the world? We just made peace with the dragons."

"Well my village is angry about that since thousands of dragons flooded our area around the same time you made your peace. The elder then made the connect with the two and blame you for the new hard time that we are put through."

Hiccup then asked, "Did they even try to make peace?"

Ky shook his head. "No, they are even more stubborn to keep tradition than the so call Stoick the Vast."

"I see... Is that why you ran off with your Skrill? Because of them killing dragons still."

"No, I left because I've been banished, sort of. And what is a Skrill? I came here with a Blitzkrieg."

"It seems that our tribes have conflicting names for that dragon." Ky only grunted as he agreed with what Hiccup said. They were walking around when Fishlegs walked up to then along with Astrid. Fishleg then got excited as he rushed onto the two teens. "Hey, I am Fishlegs, it is so great to meet the trainer of a Skrill."

Ky only looked over to Hiccup with a confused expression and then looked back towards Fishlegs. "Um, I'm Ky, and I don't know what you mean by 'trainer' because I only befriended him like a month ago. And that brings me to another point. Where is he?" Fishlegs motioned towards the Academy with much anticipation as he led the group. Hiccup noticed Astrid hasn't yet said a word and kept looking over to Ky nervously. Hiccup started to slowly get up next to her. "Is there something wrong? You haven't said anything for a while." She then motioned to what Ky was wearing and Hiccup instantly got why she was getting anxious.

"Um Ky, we may need to change your attire seeing that you are cough wearing dragon skin."

Ky then looked down at his attire and started to laugh hysterically until he slowed his laughing in which he pointed towards his armor. "This isn't dragon skin Hiccup, this is dragon scales that were melted into light metal plates." Ky even showed Hiccup and Astrid so they could let go of their worry. After seeing the armor, Hiccup even made a mental note in that he should even make something like that someday. Hiccup and Astrid washed over with relief and they continued on to the academy and they all looked down to see a snoozing dragon below. Before they could head down though, Hiccup was tackled to the ground by a blinding blur that is also known as Toothless. Following behind him was the other riders dragons. Toothless then started to lick Hiccup repeatedly while he was laying on the ground. "Toothless! Stop, I'm glad to see you too but this a little much."

Toothless got up off of Hiccup while we all laughed and even the dragons joined in. Hiccup got up and flicked away the slobber. Hiccup exclaimed sarcastically, "Glad to know that my humiliation is so entertaining." Astrid then hit him lightly on the arm. "Don't be a whiner, it was kind of funny."

Hiccup pouted a little bit until Astrid gave him a little peck on the cheek. Fishlegs averted his eyes away from the scene. Ky cleared his throat so he could get the group back to the task at hand. They all got refocused and looked to see that the Skrill was still sleeping soundly. They all walked down to the cage opening and opened up to the arena. When they entered the arena, the dragon was awoken from its slumber to only growl at them. Toothless then bared its teeth at him and Hiccup held up a hand so that Toothless would stop. Ky walked slowly towards his dragon. "Its alright Stormshadow, they aren't going to hurt you." His dragon calmed a bit but was still on edge. Ky motioned for the little group to move forward without their dragons.

"This is Hiccup." Ky pointed towards Hiccup and he moved next to Ky. Stormshadow walked forward to and inspected him over a bit before he bowed a bit deeming Hiccup enough to trust since his companion already put his trust in them. Hiccup moved his hand slowly and touched him with his hand on Stormshadows snout. Next up was Fishlegs. He seemed to be jumping with anticipation as he was holding his hands together with a big grin on his face. "This is Fishlegs." His dragon instantly saw him as no threat and bow to him with trust. Next was Astrid in which Stormshadow was a little more Skeptical towards. He walked slowly around her and and met up with the front of her again. He stopped and bowed for her to place her hand to seal some trust. After all of that was done, Hiccup was the first to ask questions. "So tell us your story, how did you two meet up with each other?"

And Ky started off with the air raid about at month ago and the story took off on its own.

* * *

>He finished his story about half an hour later with when he woke up in the healers hut. Hiccup was the first to react to this. "This sounds a lot like how Toothless and I met. I injured him in which led to us becoming the best of friends. Toothless grunted in agreement while he was laying back behind the group. Astrid was the second to react to this. "This seems quite serious, banishment is not taken lightly and they would surely look for him in the Archipelago. I think Stoick should be notified about this."

Fishleg nodded his head when he heard this. Hiccup thought this over and spoke. "We will in due time but since we are here we should learn more about this dragon, its not everyday we are left here with a non-hostile Skrill and I think we could help Ky in training him." Everyone nodded in agreement. Hiccup began with a bond of trust. "The most important thing that should be between you and your dragon is trust, and it must never be broken. You two should be basically brothers with your bond. Since you two have already got that mostly down we should move to you learning more about your dragon, and I have a funny feeling that Fishlegs would want to join us."

Fishleg nodded excitedly and stepped forward and started talking gibberish to the rest of the riders. "Well you should know that Skrills have plus 14 attack, plus 19 speed, plus 10 for armor, the shot limit is 4 but more in storms and has plus 18 stealth. 0 and he is part of the Strike class. Do you understand?"

Ky only looked at him with utter confusion. "Um yea. All I got out of that was the shot limit and that he is a strike class dragon. Everything else was a completely different language."

Fishlegs gave an exasperated look, "What I'm saying is that the Skrill is the second fastest dragon after the Night Fury." Toothless then puffed out his chest as he was called the fastest. Fishlegs then continued. "Aaaand I forgot to say the Skrill is possibly the second most intelligent... to the Night Fury." Toothless then puffed it out even more until Hiccup gave him the 'really' look. Toothless then drooped and was grunting something about 'never having and fun'. Everyone chuckled a bit at this and Fishlegs continued his talk. "And you should know that they are able to be frozen for long periods of time and can absorb lightning so when you ride him, don't come in contact with metal."

Ky gave him a nod as he understood. "I've also noticed that your dragons have saddles. Won't I need one to ride safely?"

Hiccup answered him. "Absolutely. You will get one some time later when I have time to work on it."

Astrid then decided to add to the conversation. "It will also have to be able to be able to absorb the lightning so Ky won't... get a little shock." There was a small chuckle from the group. "Well if that is all that we can get through today, Ky and I will go to Stoick and talk to him about him staying here and where he will stay." They all agreed until there was a growl from one of their stomachs. "After we go grab something to eat."

They all left the arena and headed for the Great Hall in search for some food since it was close to midday. As they were making their way there, Snotlout and Tuffnut were making their way to the group. Snotlout was the first to speak to the group. "Hey, who's the new kid."

Fishlegs was the one to speak. "This is Ky. And Ky, these guys are Snotlout and Tuffnut."

Snotlout walked up to Ky and took his hand in attempt to crush it while it looked like he was shaking it. "Nice to meet you. I am the tough and strong one of the group, as you can tell."

"Ky gave him a half interested look. "Your arrogance does somewhat impress me. But who you claim to be does not." The whole group somewhat laughed and Snotlout somewhat deflated after this and let go of his hand. They then continued as a group and the dragons were in tow behind them. Stormshadow and Toothless seemed to get use to each other quite quickly even after their rocky meeting. Hiccup was even more surprised at this since their past meetings with another Skrill not to long ago when facing Dagur.

Well they then made it to the Great Hall and entered while grabbing some food and a wood plate. They started to eat in silence until the dragon came in and tried to mooch off the riders out of their food. Snotlout was attempting to keep his food but was soon lost the fight when Hookfang lit his pants on fire and Snotlout ran out of the Great Hall looking for any water. Hookfang then just grabbed all his food and followed Snotlout out of the hall. Fishlegs instantly gave into Meatlug with her puppy dog face and Tuffnut was double teamed by Barf and Belch since his sister wasn't there to help him. Stormfly was given one chicken leg and promised more food later. Even Toothless joined in this food raid against Hiccup as they fought over the plate with no avail to either of them. Stormshadow crept up on Ky and looked over his Shoulder at his food. Ky noticed this and he decided to ask Hiccup something. "Hey uuuhh Hiccup, what do Skrills eat anyway?"

Hiccup answered even though he was still struggling. "Well I've heard their favorite food is mutton, so I guess you could find him some." Ky then got up and went with Stormshadow to find him some mutton. He grabbed two big chunks still on the bone and threw one up in the air for his dragon to eat. He caught it in his mouth and chomped on it for a second before swallowing it even with the bone. Ky threw the second piece and when he finished swallowing the second one, he regurgitated the two bones on the ground. Ky mentally groaned as he threw the pieces outside. He had an inner shudder and he went back to the group to finish his food.

* * *

>Once they finished their food, they split up and Hiccup and Ky went to go looking for Stoick. They decided to go check Hiccups house first. It seemed to be empty so they went down the hill and saw him walking away from a fight he just disputed. Hiccup and Ky lightly jogged to catch up to him. "Dad."

Stoick instantly twirled around and spoke to them. "Ahh Hiccup, good to see you. And it seems that your friend is up and well."

Ky nodded to this in response. "Yep, and I am Ky by the way."

"I be Stoick the Vast, da Chief of Berk." Since they finished with their meeting, Hiccup decided to speak up. "Well since we got that out of the way, we came here to ask where Ky and his dragon should be staying for the time being."

Stoick gave them a second as he thought of this for a second and then he came on to a decision. "Well it would only be kind for him to stay at our house for the time being, if that is fine for the both of yah." Ky and Hiccup indicated their agreement in his words. "Well that's good, but I am a bit curious on how you made it to our island."

Ky spoke his story and it ended as quickly as it started. Stoick only empty mindedly shook his head at this. "Well it seems to me that you are from the main land from your weird names for dragons. I have never heard the name 'Blitzkrieg from any other tribes. Not only that but banishment is taken seriously and your head should be worth something if capture if you were to be turned in and if we did turn you in, that would be against all we stand for now. And from the way it sounds, they will look for you themselves. We shouldn't worry about it as of now."

Hiccup and Ky understood this and Stoick dismissed them for the remaining day, which is only a couple of hours. "I could show you around the village since we didn't do that when you woke this morning. Well since you already know the Healers hut, The Arena and the Great Hall, we could start with where I do my apprenticeship." They then started walking towards the Gobber's Blacksmith, but what is now dragon dental care. Hiccup then called out to Gobber. "Hey Gobber, are you here?"

There was crashing of some metal as Gobber appeared. "Hey lad, how it be?"

"It's going quite well. Just showing someone new around the village."

Gobber took Ky's hand and shook it. "I be Gobber. Hiccups master in da Smithy."

Ky shook his hand back. "It's great to meet you."

Hiccup then remembered something. "O and since we are already here, I need you to start on a saddle for Ky's dragon."

"Ahh Hes got a dragon has he. Well first off I need ta get some measurements to start with so I may start on it." The three guys went outside where Toothless and Stormshadow were laying in the sun. Upon seeing the Skrill, Gobber was rubbed his eyes to make sure he was seeing correctly. When he made sure he could see correctly, he decided to speak. "I was not expecting this at all. I expected a Nadder or sometin'."

Hiccup shook his nodded. "Yea, I was surprised when I saw it too. Anyway we need a material that wouldn't shock Ky when hit by lightning."

"Gobber shook his head as he was thinking. "I think I got something, It should be ready in a day or two."

Hiccup and Ky were taking there leave as they were heading away but Hiccup turned around to say one more thing. "O and Gobber, no flamethrowers or catapults. They didn't work last time as you know."

"Then you can come in and help me since there won't be any fun in it then."

Hiccup grumbled something about him being a 'ungrateful man' and Ky wore a expression of total loss. "Ky, just forget you saw any of that if you know whats good for you."

"Like I know what your talking about anyway."

"We should continue." They walked on to the next thing as Ky was showed to one thing after another.

* * *

>It soon became dark out and Ky and Hiccup soon finished their tour. They made there way up to the Chiefs house as the top of the hill that looks down towards the village. They entered with their dragons and the very spacious home became a little more crammed as two more were added to its vacancy. They walked to the back door and headed towards the cellar which contained all the dragons food and Hiccup grabbed a basket full of fish for Toothless while Ky grabbed one for Stormshadow. They let their dragons feed as they head inside for their own food.

Hiccup and Ky grabbed meat and sat at a table and discussed. "So, what do you think of Berk so far?"

"Well your friends seem nice and Berk's people seem friendly, I'm kind of interested in the Academy too."

"You could come to it tomorrow after Toothless and I fly in the morning. And I could even teach you how to fly a bit better too if you want."

Ky seemed to accept this and then Stoick walked in. He grabbed a large slab of dried meat and took a big bite out of it. Hiccup said, "A bit hungry aren't we. Hard chiefing today?"

Stoick took a deep. "You don't even know the half of it. One of the fields caught on fire from a group of Terrors while I was resolving a dispute. And around high sun, I had to deal with two angry Nightmares and a new launched ship sunk due to a cracked hull."

"Seems like a full day, you should probably hit the sack."

The dragons the came in to the home. Stoick looked at them and then to Ky and Hiccup. "You should also get to sleep." Stoick then went to bed and Hiccup looked outside to see it was fully dark. "Well might as well get some furs for you to sleep on, you could sleep on the ground by my bed I guess."

"Well that fine by me, where will Stormshadow sleep?"

"There is enough room in the room for him too. But the stone slab is Toothless and he is protective of that." Toothless made a small growl meaning to be intimidating and somewhat playful. They walked upstairs into Hiccups room after they grabbed the furs for Ky to sleep on. They set up the furs and Ky took off hit chest armor which came off easily. He laid down and Hiccup also got in his bed about ready to blow out the candle after Toothless blew his stream of fire and laid down. Stormshadow got down next to Ky and got comfortable. Hiccup blew out the candle and dozed off almost immediately.

Ky looked over to Stormshadow and he was looking back at him with one eye. "What a day." His dragon grumbled a bit in agreement. Ky shut his eyes as he was welcomed with a nice darkness.

* * *

>And that is the chapter. I would like to give my apologies once again for my long absence and I would like to continue this story for a while. I'm sure Ky will fit into Berk quite well. And the changes I made I think pull the story together better. The old dragon has fuzzy details and his name did not fit him well at all. Hope you like it a bit more.

Don't forget to favorite and follow this story and reviews would be awesome. Next chapter will be at the academy and more that I won't give away just yet.

The Dragon King

6. Chapter 6

Last chapter seemed to gain a couple favorites and follows so I'm happy about that. Sadly there were no reviews when I started writing this. Well lets get this chapter started.

* * *

>There was a small crash and Ky was up in an instant. It took Ky a couple of seconds to register what had happened. It seems that Hiccup was trying to get Toothless's saddle on for their morning flight and he got excited and hit Hiccups drafting table. Now Hiccup seemed to get a hang of the situation and was finishing tightening the last strap. He looked up briefly as Ky and a seemingly grumpy Skrill. "Mornin', how was your sleep?"

Ky stretched his back with a few pops. "Not bad myself, I'm sure your good since your up so early."

"No, Toothless is the early riser here. He is the one to wake me up and if it weren't for him, I would just sleep half of the day."

"He gets you up for flights? Jeez, I'm happy I'm not in your shoes."

"Well we should be heading out. You want to come?"

Ky contemplated it for a second and even looked over to Stormshadow to see what he thought. His dragon gave him a look of 'I don't mind, a flight would be nice'. "Why not."

Hiccup smiled a bit and they headed downstairs and it even seemed that Stoick was putting on his helmet as he was ready to head out. "Mornin' son. And you too Ky."

"Thank you sir."

"Hey dad. We're heading out for a morning flight."

Stoick only gave a nod and left the house after he said something about taking care of some fleeing life stock. Hiccup grabbed two loaves of bread, one for him and one for Ky, and headed out the door. They both mounted their dragons and took to the sky as they ate their pieces of bread.

For Ky, his body could just feel that it hasn't been in the sky for a while. He felt a surge of adrenalin from the first moments of him taking to the air. His dragon could feel this as he did a corkscrew in the air out of excitement. This forced Ky to instantly grab a hold of Stormshadows horns. His dragon did a dragon-like laugh.

Hiccup saw this and had to add to the moment. "Seems like your dragon is excited thrilled to be in the air again."

Ky looked over to Hiccup with a grin. "He's not the only one excited. It feels like forever since I've been up here."

As they were discussing, Toothless seemed to have a great idea. He looked over at Stormshadow and he looked back. They looked each other in the eye and Stormshadow instantly caught on to what he wanted to do. They both sped up to an extremely fast pace. Hiccup and Ky were both confused at first until Hiccup figured it out. "It seems they wanted to race. You up for it?"

"Are you kidding, I am always ready."

"To the Northern point is where the finish is." They squared off with each other as the dragons flapped their wings vigorously and were reaching breakneck speeds. The two riders had to huddle against their backs so they wouldn't be torn off by racing winds. They were neck-and-neck and the northern shore was approaching quickly. Hiccup then shifted the tail slightly and they instantly increased their speed. They then dived over the hill and had to instantly deal with their speed as the ground was growing as they got closer. Toothless opened his wings to push against the winds that were blinding them both. They soon landed on the ground when their speed wasn't so intense and looked back to see Ky and Stormshadow were just slowing down to land.

"How did you do that?"

"Well Toothless is a Night Fury and they are just naturally faster than Skrills."

"Yea, but that increase of speed shouldn't just be that."

"O you mean that. Well I shifted to a position that would greatly increase his speed but wouldn't cause us to fall. And the tail has been modified with lighter metals and fabric." Hiccup looked up at the sun as it rose up into the air. "Well we should head back so we make it back for Academy training. And no races this time, right bud."

Toothless gave an look that showed he was not pleased but he shook his head to show he agreed to it. Ky looked over at Stormshadow.

"That means you too." Stormshadow gave a light growl showing his irritation but also agreed. They both took to the skies. "So, meeting all of your friends, is that all that is going to be at the Academy?"

"No, you haven't met Ruffnut yet."

"Is he Tuffnuts brother or something?"

Hiccup and Toothless snickered at Ky's obvious mistake. "You mean she?"

Ky corrected himself quickly, "I mean she. Wow that was quite embarrassing."

"Mmmhmmmm" They continued on in acquired silence until they made it over Gothi's hut and flew down to the Great Hall to grab a little village food before going to the Academy. They entered the Hall and grabbed some mutton and bread before heading out and walking there along side their dragons. "Don't mind them for food for now, we have some in the Academy."

Fishlegs walked up to them holding the Book of Dragons. "Hey, Hiccup I brought the Book of Dragons like you asked me to."

"Good, we will need it for trivia, since we haven't done that in a while. Some of them need to sharpen their senses for dragon knowledge, and I thought it might be a good start for Ky."

"I agree, he could be on teams with Astrid and I."

"Well the teams are already unfair as they are." They kept on walking and soon entered the Academy which had everyone present. The twins were fighting and Snotlout seemed to talk to Astrid about 'him making her happy if she would just dump Hiccup'.

Our group of three listened into this quite interesting conversation. It was now Astrid speaking. "I'm not dumping Hiccup, especially for you. I don't even like you."

Now even the twins stopped fighting and were listening. "Come on Babe, you can't refuse all of this glory." He pointed at himself.

Ky now looked at Hiccup and whispered to him. "Is he always like this?"

"Not always... Never mind, he basically is like this." They now listened back to the conversation.

"It's not that hard, I have for a while."

"Well I will have you at some point. And what I don't get is that you're a fighter and you are dating someone who can't fight. He is easy to push around." Ky rose an eyebrow at this and made a note to talk about this with Hiccup. He focused back in and he was growing a little more irritated.

"He is not a pushover!"

"He is and will always be..." Snotlout didn't finish this due to Ky clearing his throat to gain everyone's attention. Then he spoke after there was silence. "I really don't care about relationship issues and how one is upset, but you are clearly wasting time with this stalemated argument. So as I see it, we should probably start." He then looked over at Hiccup for him to start.

"Well since that is over, we should begin. Since we have a new trainer here, we are starting with dragon trivia." The twins and Snotlout became visible distressed with groans. "And the teams are Tuff, Ruff, and Snotlout against Astrid, Fish, and Ky."

Tuffnut then added, "Guy's, I'm the dragon master so we will totally win."

Ruffnut countered her brother. "The only thing you have mastered is getting your ass handed by me."

The twins then started to head bang and wrestled each other to the ground. Hiccup had to gain their attention again. "Guy's really, right now."

They both then said simultaneously, "Hey, they started it."

"I don't really care. I'm ending it."

They both picked themselves up and everyone got into positions with the stone board. Hiccup started off, "Instead of doing dragon specialties, we will do basic knowledge and appearances, this is just for a starter today. First question, What dragon emits a sonic blast? Team Astrid, you are first."

Fishlegs was the one to jump to it. "That would be the Thunderdrum. Their strong concussive sound could kill a viking at short ranges."

"That is correct, one point for Team Astrid. Now to team Snotlout..."

* * *

>The Trivia went on for twenty minutes and now it was Team Astrid winning with 50 points and Team Snotlout behind with 15 points. But Hiccup had one more question. "Team Snotlout, what is the Skrills natural color?

Snotlout was the one to answer. "Umm, that's easy. By looking at that Skrill, it would be dark blue with black markings, that question was easy."

"Actually compared to other Skrills we have seen and the Book of Dragons says it's gray with purple markings. I have no idea why that one is different. Do you know Ky?"

"My only guess would be temperature, my old village was a bit warmer than Berk is."

"Well do we still get the point for that?"

"Sure, like it really affects the outcome anyway. Now we are moving on to our weekly time trial. Snotlout, your up first."

"Time to show all of you who is the fastest." With that said, he took to the air as Fishlegs was counting him off for the time and Ruff split from Tuff and made her way to Astrid to talk. Ky thought it a good time to speak with Hiccup.

"Hey Hiccup. From listening to Snotlout, yea not words you want anyone to say, I didn't know you couldn't fight."

"O I can, Toothless and I fight together quite well."

Ky gave him a deadpan look. "That's not what I mean. I meant with a weapon."

Hiccup came up with his own depressed look. His father never taught him how to truly fight and neither did anyone else. He was left only to teach himself but he never really had an interest. "No, I can't fight that way. I was never taught and I was never a natural at combat."

"Well my village was taught to repay those who are helping us, and since you are improving my flying I will teach you the basics of combat. You never know when you will need it. At some point you and Toothless will be separated and you will have to fend for yourself."

Hiccup lightened up with an interested expression. "Your serious about that?"

"Well it is the only true way I can really repay you with."

"Well I accept your offer."

"Good, we start next week."

Hiccup was a little confused. "Why not this week?"

"I'm still a little bruised from my 'landing' on Berk, it wasn't a smooth entrance."

Snotlout finished his time trial with his chant. This made everyone roll their eyes. He landed and jumped off his dragon. "So, how did I do?"

"Well you got basically the same time." Even though he still isn't number one with his time, he still swells with a growing ego. "No one will beat that."

Since Hiccup and Ky finished up their discussion he was able to speak. "Ok, the twins are up next."

Astrid and Ruff split from their discussion. Ruffnut and Tuffnut got on their dragon and headbutted each other before they took to the sky. Fishlegs was counting them off.

Astrids and Ruffnuts discussion while Snotlout was gone

Ruffnut made her way over to Astrid. "Hey Astrid, whats up?"

Astrid turned around to face Ruffnut. "O nothing, what did you to talk about?"

"I just wanted to ask about the new guy. Where did he come?"

"Forming a little crush are we." Astrid said this with a joking tone. Yet Ruffnut looked down briefly with a small blush. Astrid instantly figured it out and gave a surprised look.

"I was just joking, I thought you could blush either so you must really do. But I thought you said you wouldn't fall for anyone."

"Well this is the first time, didn't you notice I didn't answer a single question?"

"Yea, what was that all about."

"I felt really weird and I would glance at him occasionally." They both looked back at him and he seemed to be in deep discussion with Hiccup. They turned back to each other.

"Well like I said before, I will help you with him."

"Really, you would help me?"

"I promised, didn't I. I will also get Hiccup to help you."

Ruffnut hugged Astrid and said loudly, "O, thank you! You truly are a friend." Tuffnut was the only one to look over with a questioning look. Fishleg was concentrating on the timing and Hiccup was too deep in a conversation with Ky to notice. Astrid pat he on the back to signal that she hugged long enough. She split off and Snotlout came through the opening chanting and landed. The only thing that they payed attention to after that was when Hiccup said it was the twins to go next. Ruff and Tuff got on their dragon and took off after a headbutt.

* * *

>They all finished their time trial with Hiccup finishing first with Ky in second then Astrid slightly behind with her time. The twin beat Snotlout which made him pout since he got last and Fishlegs didn't do the time trial. "Nice Job, I guess that is all for today. We will meet up tomorrow at the same time."

Tuffnut and Snotlout left to go and hit on the teenage girl community, Fishlegs was taking Meatlug and going to study some dragons on near by islands, and Ruffnut said she was 'going to do something'. This left Ky, Astrid, and Hiccup. "Astrid and I were going to go grab some food, you can come along if you want."

"No, I will have to pass. Stormshadow and I are going to roam the forest, see you guys tonight for the evening meal." Ky then mounted his dragon and they flew out of the arena towards the forest behind Berk.

Hiccup looked at Astrid with with a grin on his face. "That leaves just us. Shall we get going?"

Astrid pecked him on the cheek. "We shall."

Stormfly and Toothless already left to go do dragon things. So they walked out of the Academy and across the bridge. "So, Ky did quite well today, especially when on Fishlegs and I's team."

"Yea, he answered quite a bit. He also felt that he needed to pay me back since I am going to help him with flying. He got the idea to teach me in combat."

Astrid looked at him expressionless. "Did he get that idea when Snotlout was trying to pick me up?"

"Yea, that was my guess. We talked about it during the time trials."

"Is that what you were conversing with him?"

They made it to the Great Hall and opened the large doors. By the looks of the Hall, they had just missed the rush. It was quite messy inside and there were about fifteen vikings in there total. "Yep, starting in a week." They grabbed some food and sat down.

Astrid remembered what she needed to tell him about Ruffnut. "O, while you were talking to Ky, Ruff and I started talking. And you would never guess what it is about."

"What?" Hiccup took a large bit out of bread that he grabbed.

"She has a little crush on Ky." Hiccup almost choke on the bread as he started to cough. "What!?"

By this time, the vikings in the room looked over at the couple with questioning looks. Astrid shushed Hiccup. "Don't yell it out." She punched him on the arm and he started to rub it. "Ow."

"How did you figure this out."

"She told me. I promised that I would help and you're going to help too."

"What? Why?"

"Because I said you would."

Hiccup was contemplating a bit. He gave an unhappy voice with his answer. "Ok, I will help."

"Thanks" She kissed him briefly on the lips and picked up both of their empty plates and they began to leave.

* * *

>Hours passed as night began to overtake the day. The group was back together and sitting around a fire, Fishlegs briefly explained how he found a group of Timberjacks and he watched them for two hours, and now Snotlout and Tuffnut were talking about their flirting that they did. "Tuff was my wing man for our quest for booty. We got close to getting some but he messed it up."

"What did I do? You scared them away with your face." Snotlout got up from his seat and tackled Tuffnut to the ground. They rolled around until Ruff picked up her brother and Ky grabbed a hold of Snotlout's collar and dragged him back to his seat. Ky spoke, "Well seeing as their quest was a fail, what did you guys do, Astrid and Hiccup?"

"Well we ate lunch together and then decided to go on a small walk around Berk."

Snotlout spoke in his usual tone. "Well Hiccup, that sounds really boring. Do you know what I would have done?"

"Do I care what you would have done?"

"Well I would have taken her back to my place and-" Everyone gave a slight sound of disgust.

Ky got up and walked over to a dozing Stormshadow. "I really don't want to hear him speak again so I'm going to head back to Hiccup's house to go to bed, see you all later." His dragon got up with a roaring yawn and they both began to walk off. Hiccup now got up. "I should probably go since Toothless will wake me up for a morning ride. See you all tomorrow."

Astrid kissed him as they parted and Hiccup was running with Toothless to catch up with Ky. The group was slowly deteriorating so that the sight only had a couple of smoldering embers left. But they would soon blacken to the color of the night sky.

* * *

>That is chapter 6 of the story. Out quick enough I hope. Tell me how you feel about the Ruff x OC, I think it would be good. Next Chapter will be up in a week or so, so don't worry. Favorites, Follows, and even reviews are majorly appreciated.
**

Your Author-

The Dragon King

P.S. Reviews are very appreciated **

7. Chapter 7

Next Chapter is up, still wish for reviews and what not. But no matter, your enjoyment is more important than anything else. So here it is.

* * *

>It has been eight days since Ky's arrival on Berk and it was the day that training would begin for Hiccup. Hiccup had just finished his morning flight with Ky included and they were grabbing a bag of food because of how Ky put it 'they would be gone for a while'. "Will I be able to bring Toothless along?" Ky wasn't really paying attention as he was filling the bag with dried meat and bread. There was a ten second break from when Hiccup asked his question to when Ky actually answered it.

"He can come. But he is not to interfere with your training." Hiccup only nodded in response then Ky picked up the bag full of food and a mutton leg in his hand. They headed out of the Chiefs house where the two dragons were laying in the shade. Stormshadow was the first to get up from the ground when seeing food in his riders hand. Ky threw the meat in the air which was returned by a crunch and swallow. Toothless was fed earlier so Hiccup had no reason to give him any fish.

"Well we have a long way to walk so we should probably get started."

"Wait, were not flying to the place where I am training?" Ky was already walking forward when he yelled over his shoulder.
"Nope."

Hiccup ran over to catch up with Toothless in tow. When they entered the forest, the sounds of birds singing bounced off of the trees. The only other sounds were the the steps the dragons took that snapped twigs and and crushed leaves while Hiccups prosthetic leg made an occasional squeak. "So, what all am I going to do for training for today?"

"Well right now we are walking there, which we will do everyday. When we get there, I am going to put you under some... tests to see where your fitness lies."

"Cool... Hows the new saddle working for you?"

"Pretty good. I still need to test it in a storm to see if I will absorb any lightning through it."

They walked in silence for about a minute until Ky decided to come up with a conversation. "I was wondering how you and Toothless met. You haven't told me yet I have told you my story."

"Seems fair. We met quite a while ago. It stated one early morning and there was a dragon raid. Being that we still killed dragons, I did what every teen wanted to do. Join the fight and take down a dragon for glory. But I wasn't going for the Nadders or Gronkles. No I was going for the Night Fury, a dragon never seen nor even killed by vikings. So I made my way outside with a contraption I made and waited until the moment I fired and brought it down. Yet no one believed my like the other times. Still outcasted by my tribe..."

"Sorry, stopping you there. You were an outcast in your tribe before Toothless?"

"Well, yeah. I would destroy part of the village and that would add flame to the fact that I was a hiccup."

"Didn't really get that impression. Anyways, continue."

Hiccup was thinking for a second. "So after that, I went into the forest in order to find the Night Fury. After much frustration, I finally found him and couldn't kill him so I released him. He ran off after he roared in my face and when I returned home learning that I was to attend dragon training.

After I gained his trust after a while, I learned a lot about dragons that I applied to dragon training and became the top of the class. That was when Astrid found out about Toothless and we were forced to gain her trust. We ended up doing so but also accidentally traveled to the dragon nest.

Barely escaping the clutches of the queen, I had to face the Monstrous Nightmare but tried to show they are not our enemy and that we could coexist. That didn't end well with it chasing me until Toothless came and saved me. He was captured and led my dad to the nest. Snotlout, Tuff, Ruff, Fish, Astrid and I took the dragons that were locked in their cages and rode them to the nest.

When we arrived, the boats were flaming and everyone was scattered. I attempted to save Toothless from one of the burning ships but my dad ended up saving him. Well after that, Toothless and I managed to defeat the Queen at the cost of my leg and we have been at peace with them ever since."

Ky soaked in all what Hiccup just said. "That is quite the story. I'm pretty sure all wasn't said but no less, it was a great summary."

They walked for a bit longer until they reached a large field with boulders varying in size littering the ground. A small stream made its way across the field like a giant scar on the land. Ky took off his pack and laid it on a flat boulder. "Let us get started shall we."

"Better now than never."

"Stretch out while I give you a small lecture."

Hiccup was doing small stretches while Toothless and Stormshadow seemed to do their dragonlike snicker at Hiccup as he was doing so. "How is this so funny?" The question was directed at the dragons. Toothless tried to mimic Hiccup which Hiccup snorted back. "Focus Hiccup. So you're a blacksmith, correct?"

"Yeah. What does that have to do with anything?"

"Even though you may seem very skinny, you could possibly hold some strength in your small stature."

"I never thought of it that way."

"There is only one way we can test that out. When you're done with your stretching, we are going to go for a long run to get you ready for the other tests I am going to give you."

Hiccup finished up his final stretch and straightened out showing that he was ready and they headed out on their run

* * *

>About an hour and a half later, they made it back to the field. Hiccup was sweating vigorously and he already took off his vest. Due to the air being warm, he wasn't too sore in any place including his stumped leg. The dragons were sleeping by each other in the shade of a boulder. "You may get a small drink of water but we are continuing right after that."

Hiccup made his way to the bag which contained the pouches of water in them. He took out the cork and started to drink and even some water dripped down his chin and sides of his mouth. He stopped drinking and released a couple heavy breaths before putting the cork back in and walked back to Ky. "So what are we doing next?"

"Well your still not done with the endurance part. Get in a squatting position." Hiccup was skeptical at first with a questioning look plastered on his face. But never the less, he did what he was told. Ky picked up what looked like a rock that was about ten pounds. "Every five minutes, I will add a rock about this size. I am going to see how long and how much you can hold. Remember, I am adding weight while you hold a pose for a long duration, work through the pain."

Hiccup nodded and Ky began to count when he gave Hiccup the rock. And he began scavenging for more rocks. At first Hiccup felt the weight he held was pretty easy. He was pretty tired but he felt almost no soar muscles as he held the pose.

Five minutes later, Ky came back holding about 7 or 8 rocks, he dropped them on the ground except for one which he added to Hiccups' weight. Ky started to mumble again as he restarted his count. Hiccup started to feel a small strain on his thighs and calves but his arms seemed to do fine. Toothless and Stormshadow now got up and were watching what he was doing. "You feel that? That strain on your body as you get more soar every second."

"Not really. My legs are just a little tired."

"Good, because here it another." He placed another rock on the pile and Hiccup could now feel the difference. Ky began to count off again as he made his way over to his Skrill and was plucking off loose scales and started to scratch him on his back. Toothless walked over to Hiccup and sat right in front of him with the big round eyes. He seemed to wonder why his rider was putting himself through pain. Hiccup smiled to reassure him and than he zoned out.

Hiccup wasn't paying attention when Ky put on the fourth rock on his pile. He almost stumbled over and Ky gave a light chuckle. "Better watch out. You wouldn't want 4 10 pound rocks falling on you." Hiccup only gave a small grunt afraid if he opened his mouth he would just fall over. The tension was enough through all of his muscles that any release in that would cause him to release all of his tension. Just when he was going to zone out again, Astrid flying on Stormfly came into view. She landed and hopped off her dragon which went and chased Toothless and Stormshadow.

"Ahh Astrid, what are you doing here?"

"I come here to check on Hiccup. And what is he doing?"

"I am pushing him to his limit."

"Okay, well anything you need help with?"

"No, not really. But you are welcome to stay and watch."

Ky placed another rock on and you could audibly hear Hiccup groaning now since he was holding 50 pounds and was squatting for 20 minutes. "You think he's going to give out soon, he been like this for quite a while."

Astrid thought about it for a while while observing him. "I think you will add one more rock and he will give out."

Hiccup said barely loud enough, "I can't believe your placing bets."

"We're not placing bets, just wondering how long you can last."

"Thanks Ky, that makes me feel a ton better"

"Focus... On what your doing."

Hiccup only grunted and was silent until Ky placed another rock on his ever growing pile. Hiccup lasted about ten seconds with that load until Ky saw he was about to collapse. Hiccup swayed with the rocks falling all over the ground and almost fell if it weren't for Ky who caught him by the collar. "Quite impressive Hiccup. Told you you had more strength than you thought. Hiccup didn't answer until he released a heavy breath.

Ky looked up towards the sky seeing that they were working for about 2 hours. "You can grab something to eat, in need to head back to the village because I need to grab more water for you." Ky jumped on to Stormshadow and they soon disappeared in the sky.

Astrid spoke quickly after Ky left. "So I figured out a way to get Ruff and Ky together."

"And how are we to do that?" Hiccup started to munch on dried meat.

"We are going to set up a double date without Ky knowing."

Hiccup contemplated it for a second. "Are you sure he won't figure something of it? I mean he would have to know that it's a date."

"Possibly, but guys seem to be blind to stuff like that."

"I guess your right."

"Of course I am." Astrid gave Hiccup a peck on the cheek. "Well I need to go. Chores, you know."

"Yeah, I will see you after this and we can plan that double date."

They wave bye to each other and Astrid took off on Stormfly. Hiccup was left with only Toothless now. Hiccup gave Toothless a bit of dried meat for him to eat. He tasted it at first but seemed to give a shudder when he swallowed. "Don't like it to much, do you bud."

He gave a small roar showing that he indeed didn't like it. Ky came into view and landed by the two. "Here is more water if you want some. Hey, where did Astrid go?"

"She had to leave to go do chores."

"Well that sucks, shall we continue." Hiccup gave a small groan as he got up. This was going to take a while.

* * *

>About three hours later, Ky finally said the words Hiccup was waiting for. "We're done for today."

"O, thank the gods." With that said, Hiccup dropped to the ground from exhaustion. Toothless walked over to his tired viking and started to lick his face. "O-o Too-othless, st-stop. That's gross." Hiccup jumped up and flicked some of the saliva on his laughing dragon. Toothless snorted and swiped his paw over his face to rid of the saliva.

"Anyways... Hiccup, I figured what you need to work on. Your agility and strength need some working on. Speed will come naturally with the agility and strength but we will work on it a bit. Your endurance seems fine since smithing will working on that for itself. We will work with weapons later as in next week or the week after."

"Will the sessions be as long as this one?"

"No, they will be around half the length, which is about two and a half hours."

"Great. Since we are done here, I am going to head out. You coming with?"

"No, Stormshadow and I are going to do some self training before we work on our flight with you tomorrow at sunrise."

"Well, see you later. When will you be done?"

"I will be back in the village in an hour." Ky then climbed up on Stormshadow and left Toothless and Hiccup.

Hiccup looked towards the sky until Ky was a dust lost in the clouds. He mounted Toothless and the took off back towards the village. They did twirls in the clouds and took their time on their way back to the village. They felt free as a feather while they dodged the columns of clouds. They stalled and Hiccup even decided to do a free fall.

Hiccup decided they should be getting back so he flew over Gothi's hut while entering into the village. Hiccup spotted Astrid as she was ignoring Snotlout while walking with Ruffnut. Then Ruff had enough and punched Snotlout straight in the nose. When he landed, Astrid and Ruff were kicking him while he was on the ground holding his bloody face. He then jumped up and ran away. Hiccup now entered the group. "What was that all about?"

Ruff answered him. "He was trying to flirt with both of us. Not just Astrid, both of us."

Astrid now spoke. "Well I am not going to talk about it. So Hiccup, over to talk about our plan?"

"Yeah, might as well start now."

"What plan?"

Astrid looked over at Ruff. "The plan we are making on starting a double date to hook you up with Ky."

Ruff was a little excited. "What are we going to do?"

Astrid and Ruff both looked at Hiccup. He thought for a second. "Why don't we do like a lunch at the cove. Its private and both your brother and Snotlout can't bother us."

"Well that seems nice, but who is going to ask Ky to come with."

All were silent and both the girls looked at each other and then at Hiccup. Hiccup quick to answer their looks. "Why me? Why can't either of you do it?"

"Because you seem to be closer to him than we do."

"But it will be awkward."

"Suck it up. I won't be that bad."

Hiccup mumbled, "Easy for you to say."

The group then split up at they went their separate ways. Hiccup went to his house to wait for Ky to come back from his little adventure. He started to draw a new saddle that use for Toothless until Ky and Stormshadow came in. "Hey Hiccup, what are you drawing?"

"O, a new saddle for Toothless and I."

"Nice, well I'm going to grab some food so see you."

Hiccup just remembered what he was doing waiting here. "O, I need to tell you something."

Ky turned around with a questioning face. "What is it?"

"Well Astrid and I were wondering if you would come for a small lunch tomorrow with us and Ruff. What do you say?"

Ky thought about it for a second. Hiccup was waiting with anticipation while Ky thought about it. "Alright, I will come with you guys."

"You will. I mean won't it be weird for you an all not knowing us well?"

"Well by this way I will get to know three of you bit more. Well if that's all, I'm going to go." Ky left Hiccup room as Hiccup turned back to his sketch. He then looked over at Toothless. "That went better than I thought."

He looked back at his drawing as he was thinking. 'Tomorrow will be an eventful day'.

* * *

>Well there you have. This chapter is done and the next one will be started in a day or two. Do you think it was rushed? I don't think so but that may just be me. How are you liking Ky and Stormshadow so far? Well your opinion is up to you.

Like alway, Favorite, Follow and comment this story. I would like to know what you think should happen next. And don't worry, the past will catch up to Ky faster than you think it will.

Review!

~The Dragon King

8. Chapter 8

Hello Once again. Well It seems that chapter reviews have been going down so I would like to hear what you want to happen. I did get a review so I will answer back to the questions

Guest: What is Ky's past? Also since he has a Skrill, will Dagur and the Berserker's go after them? Will there be a sequel?

Ky's past will be revealed in the future. There is possible plans for Dagur to make an entrance but isn't finalized. Last, I have began ideas for a sequel but it is much too early to start since this story isn't close to done.

Thank you once again for that review. Now let the Chapter begin.

* * *

>Hiccup was sweating from the workout he just received. Ky worked with him to keep him fit but wasn't as affected due to him no long wearing his armor. Instead he had loose black pants and a dark blue shirt with black boots.

Ky worked him ruthlessly on his strength. For one of his workouts he had to carry 70 pounds of rocks up half a mountain. His bones ached, his eyes barely stayed open and when he would almost fell asleep, Ky would pick him up and throw him in a freezing stream. That would instantly put him on alert and Ky would just snicker at his flailing in the water.

But all that had passed and he had just rinsed himself off for their 'double date' that Ky is oblivious to. They were walking through the woods since the dragons decided to sleep after morning flight training. "So who are the people we are having midday feeding with?"

"Ruffnut and Astrid. I can't believe you already forgot who."

"Hey don't blame me, I'm terrible at remembering names."

"Whatever." They were just silent overall as they weaved in and out of the trees as they made it back to Berk. They walked back into town to go grab their dragons before they met up with the ladies. Hiccup did his Night Fury call and Toothless ran down the hill and ended up tackling Hiccup and started to lick him all over. "Stop bud. Your making me all gross with your saliva." Toothless slowly crawled off of Hiccup allowing him to get up.

"What was that sound?"

"I was just calling Toothless over here."

"Could you teach me that?"

"Someday I will. But right now, we have a lunch to do."

Stormshadow then landed in the group by Ky which was received by a scratch under the chin. "Well we should get going. Where are they anyway?"

"They will meet us at the cove." They climbed on their dragons and shot into the sky. They flew over the forest until they saw a depression in the ground and not many trees located in it. They located the two blonds and both of their dragons. Hiccup was the first to land and spoke. "Ladies. Ruff, your brother allowed you to take the dragon?"

"Well we're no longer attached by the hip like we use to be. He is hanging more with Snotlout and they are both back in the village flirting with the younger girls." Ky landed behind Hiccup and didn't say anything to the group that was more than a 'hello'.

Astrid looked over at Hiccup. "Well Ruff and I to the liberty to set up for our lunch. And we told Fish not to bother us unless if was an absolute emergency. So he won't bother us with Skrill questions and whatnot."

Ky actually added to the conversation. "Well that good, he's nice and all but he is very stubborn about this kind of thing."

They walked over to the large area covered with a small cloth and many types of food including venison, mutton, salmon, Icelandic cod, and bread. There was also a bottle of something that Hiccup didn't know what it was. They sat down and their dragons started to chase each other as they seemingly were playing tag. They were grabbing food and started to eat what they grabbed. Ky sniffed the air catching a fragrance. "What is that smell. It smells like flowers."

Ruffnut was the one to blush and speak. "Well, that would be me." Hiccup started to cough from this and Astrid hit his back while he coughed. She continued. "I-is it pl-leasant to you?"

Ky was oblivious to the nervousness. "It is quite nice." It became quiet with awkward feel in the air, but Astrid was smart enough to end this silence. "So guess what is coming up." She was slightly jumping with anticipation.

Hiccup was the one to answer her. "What is coming up?"

"Well in about 10 days, the annual Viking Arena Games start."

Ruff looked with interest. "Wait we are old enough for that. I thought you had to be a year or two older than what we are now."

"Nope, we are of age to compete. It is between 15 winters and 20 winters of age. Isn't this great." Hiccup groaned. "And of course my dad is going to force me to compete in it."

Ky looked at the group as they rambled on and he only looked on with confusion. "What is the Viking Arena Games?"

Astrid started to explain what it was, "Well it is a 2 day event where all of the archipelago puts aside all of their differences and war. They come together and their young vikings fight against one another. They do one-on-one matches until they reach a single victor in the end. It has been going on for such a long time. They fight with their own weapons but not to the death."

"This sound like quite the sport, Hiccup is going to have quite the time training with me."

"Wait, what?"

"Yep, we are going to find your perfect weapon and train you for the games."

"O, great. Nothing like more pain to help me." Ky looked at him with a raised eyebrow. "Some dry humor."

"Okay, well it will help you. I bet the other guys will probably do this. Especially Snotlout, he is going to try and show off and fail miserably."

Astrid looked at him surprisingly. "You seem to totally get Snotlout and you have been here for barely over a week."

"He isn't that hard to get. And these games seem like they will be easy enough to win."

Astrid and Ruff looked at him with blank stares until Astrid broke the silence. "Not if I have anything to say about it."

Ruffnut added, "Yeah, me too."

Ky shook his arms in showing he wasn't trying to be offensive. "That not what I meant. You two are probably good but I had to condition myself and I started to fight off dragons when I was 8."

Astrid glared at him and then they looked at each other and started to smile. They got up and surrounded Ky who was still sitting looking up at them. "Uhh, Hiccup. Should I be afraid, because I don't know what I feel. They have evil smiles on them."

"If I were you. I would be." They both grabbed Ky and dragged him to the side of the pond. They then picked him up and threw him in the water. When he ascended he had a look of annoyance as the girls and even his dragon started to laugh at him. Luckily he didn't have his armor on him or he would be weighed down. He walked slowly over to the girls and Astrid was about to push him back down but his reflexes were much faster. He grabbed her hand before it even made contact and flung her over his head right into the water. Ruff was so baffled to notice Ky had now shifted his attention over to her.

"Your turn." he grabbed her and threw her in the water right behind Astrid. She came to the surface and Astrid took notice of her dazed, grinning face. She turned back to Ky. "So that's how it's going to be."

Ky looked back at Hiccup. "Care to join?"

Hiccup was thinking about it and observed as Ky was being double teamed but somewhat holding his own against the two Females. He inwardly groaned until he decided to go and help his 'master'. He tried to pull off Astrid which was on Ky's back. "Hiccup?! What do you think you doing?"

"I am making the teams fair." He successfully pulled her off and was now left with an angry Astrid.

"You are so going to get it Haddock."

"Oh dear." He started to sprint towards his dragon in which only gave him 'you're on your own'. He continued with Astrid closely behind him. Ky could only laugh as him and Ruff stopped their spar in order to watch what was happening with those two. He looked over at Ruff. "Well, might as well join this fiasco."

"That was what I was thinking." Ruff twirled him around and kicked him right back into the pond. He ascended only to find Hiccup thrown onto him. Ky got up and picked Hiccup up by the collar. "Well it seems that they don't know what is coming." Hiccup looked at the girls who were now high-fiving each other not noticing that they were standing. They nodded at each other and grabbed the girls wrists and took them into the water with them. They were now 'fighting' each other in the water by splashing water on one another. It changed more into a swim and they chased one another down. All their dragons laid in the shade watching all of their riders as they were having fun.

* * *

>They were swimming around for what was 45 minutes but only seemed like a minute or two to the riders. But it was ended when they were slightly shivering in the semi-cold water. They walked out and noticed there was one more thing that they didn't finish from their meal. Ruffnut picked it up and twisted the cork out of the bottle. "Ahhh, nothing like mead to finish this meal."

Hiccup looked at her with much surprise. "Where did you get mead?"

"Ummm, From the hall. Duuuuhh." She took a swig of the small bottle and handed it off to Astrid. She herself took a bit less than Ruff and wiped her mouth off before handing it to Ky who took a mighty swig of it before handing it to Hiccup who just sniffed it before taking a taste sip. He swished it in his mouth before swallowing it. He went wide eyed before he took the rest of it but he coughed due to the stinging it gave in his throat. "Well that was better than I thought it would be."

Just as Hiccup placed the bottle back in their picnic area, there was the light buzzing from the Gronckles. They all looked up at the rider of the Gronckle as he jumped off of his dragon. Astrid was the first to speak. "Fishlegs, I thought we told you not to come here unless it is an emergency."

"But it is. There is an unknown ship that has entered the horizon that could possibly be hostile."

Hiccup now spoke. "And let me guess. Dad told you to come and get us."

"Precisely."

Hiccup now turned back to the group. "Well it seems that this ended sooner than thought. Well let us pack before we come with you."

They all started to pick up the area until what was only left was the footprints left in the dirt. They all climbed on their dragons and took off towards Berk. They flew through the air and let the sky take them. The sun was still high in the sky and there were only a couple of clouds that scarred the sky. The silence in the group was broken by Ky. "That was quite the lunch. We should do that again sometime."

Ruffnuts expression brightened when she heard this. She couldn't believe that he wanted to have a lunch like that again. "Or we could do something else like that. It doesn't have to be a small picnic."

Hiccup was also listening in on this. "Well we will find something else to do sometime." They all, except Fishlegs, agreed that they would need to do this again.

Hiccup dropped back to Astrid while Ruff started a conversation with Ky. Hiccup started to speak to Astrid in a hushed tone. "Wow, I never thought she would have a crush on someone. But to be nervous around him is something else."

"What do you mean?"

"Well when he could smell her perfume, which I never thought she would wear, she seemed all nervous and stuttered around him."

"I know, she is seemingly changing, but loosing her tomboy self. I asked her about it earlier and she said that feels... different."

Hiccup thought for a second. "Well what should we do next? You know, to get them together."

"Well what I was thinking was..."

Fishlegs spoke up right as they flew over the village. "Stoick told us to meet him at the docks." They looked down, and by the looks of it half of the village was down there looking out to sea. There was a single ship and it was seemingly making its way to Berk. They all landed behind the group of vikings and made their way over to Stoick who was right now speaking with Gobber and Spitelout. Hiccup and his group interrupted whatever they were talking about as Stoick looked his way.

"Ahh, son. I needed to see if you recognize that symbol on their sail." Stoick handed him a magnifying lens to take a look. The look on the sail was that of the skeleton of a dragon. The sail was pitch black while the symbol stood out as a white. Hiccup passed the lens over to Astrid who took a look at the ship.

"Well, Its not an Outcast ship nor is it a Berserker ship. I've never seen that symbol before." Astrid shook her head as she didn't know what it was. It was passed down the line until it made it to Ky for him to take a look. He looked in for a second before he visibly paled. He mumbled something only to himself that Hiccup barely heard. "How did they find me..."

This was the only time Hiccup has ever seen Ky nervous. Now Stoick looked down at Ky with a scowling frown. "Do you recognize that ship?"

"Yes." People started to mumble among one another. Some people looked wide eyed at him and some people had expressions as if they expected this to happen. "SILENCE!"

Everyone instantly became quiet and looked on with anticipation. Stoick looked back down at Ky. "Who are they."

Ky looked up at Stoick with a stone look. "That is the symbol of my native village. They are no doubt looking for me in the archipelago. They are coming for the head of Stormshadow and I." He was now pointing back at his dragon which was lightly growling while looking towards the ship. Stoick shook his head and was rubbing his temples. He then took off his helmet and smoothed his hair back before putting his helmet back on. He started to walk down to the docks and Hiccup was following him.

"Dad, what are you going to do?"

"What has to be done for the protection of this village and every single citizen here."

They all went wide eyed as they feared for the worst. Stoick is going to transfer Ky back to his people for the best of the village. They all ran after the Chief as he made his small trek down to the docks. The ship was about to dock. Hiccup made it up right beside his dad. "Can we talk about this. You can't possibly sacrifice Ky."

"What is going to be done, is going to be done." The ship finally hit the dock and a board was placed down and a man wearing intimidating, dragon bone armor. He had black hair with a long, messy beard. His face seemed as if it were filled with much energy to serve his ever growing thirst for blood.

He scanned all the vikings until he came on a familiar face and he gave a devious grin. "Greeting Berk, I am Valence the Brute. I am sent by Chief Solvieg the Dreaded from the village Valenheim. We have been searching for a fugitive and it seems that we have found him."

"I be Stoick the Vast, Chief of Berk."

"Well we will be out of your way once you return our fugitive."

"First I need to ask a question. What is to be done with your prisoner?"

Valence laughed for a brief moment which was followed by his men. He then stopped and looked back at Stoick. "He will be tried, and will be guilty. His dragon that he rode and aligned himself with will be beheaded before him." Stormshadow and all the dragons growled by hearing this. Valence continued. "He will watch it die and then we will torture him until he is beheaded and burned." He started to walk towards Ky until he was stopped by Stoick who grabbed him. All of Valences' men rose their crossbows at this action until his hand was raised.

Stoick spoke with venom in his voice. "You will not be doing any of those things seeing as you are not getting near him." He was then pushed back towards his ship.

Valence sneered, "This is an act of war."

"So be it." All of Berk was watching with wide eyes as they were witnessing something with extreme importance unfold. Valence was walking forward towards as he put a hand on his sword. Stoick, followed by Gobber and Spitelout then drew their weapons waiting for him to strike. Even the dragons were hissing waiting to blow him apart. He stepped back on to his ship.

He started to yell. "We will call our allies and sink your island down in the ocean. You will remember this day as you demise and you will be shown no mercy. Today is the day that Berk has died. You will see us in 4 months, thousands of us. Not even the entire archipelago will help you." He then got fully on his ship as they started to disembark where they would begin their journey back to Valenheim. Gobber then got up right by Stoick.

"Should we call together the war council?"

Stoick was still looking as the ship was sailing away. He was going through his head if he should just blow up the boat, but that would be a coward thing to do. "Yes, we meet at once."

Stoick turned around and now face a very confused group of teens. Ky stepped forward. "Why?"

Stoick knew what he was talking about. "I said I would protect the people of this village and I have. I did what any chief would have done in this situation."

Ky nodded his head with a small smile. "Thank you."

"Now I need you for the war council so you can explain the what we are up against." Ky nodded his head as he understood as he followed the chief up to the Great Hall. Hiccup and his group followed behind. There was one thing that ran through the heads of all the teens, this was not how they predicted the day to go.

* * *

>Well had a bit of writers block but I strove through it. Well I decided to add as tournament to add to the excitement. And that 'double date' went quite well. Next chapter, Ky will explain a bit of his past and that of Valenheim.

As always, follow, favorite and review. I want to know what your opinion is and what you would like to happen next. Thank you for the views

REVIEW!

The Dragon King

9. Chapter 9

And Here is Chapter 9

A/N this chapter will be split into bits and pieces by different days.

* * *

>The Great Hall was filled with arguing vikings. Yells were being thrown from one viking to another and the sounds bounced off the walls. Some even drew their weapons ready to strike one another. The teens, except Ky, watched from one of the corners with 'are you kidding me' faces. Everyone was then silenced by a thundering voice. "QUIET!"

Everyone turned their attention to the chief who was now standing on a table. "This foolishness must stop. We are a tribe, we don't fight with one another. We are here to discuss the new enemy that we face out there-

A viking yelled out. "You should have just let them have 'em. Then we wouldn't be put in a war."

"What is done, is done. I have chosen to protect the boy and that is of my concern. Let me ask you, would you be selfish enough to give up a young lads life to be mercilessly killed?" Some of the vikings looked around at one another and the one who made the outburst looked away in slight shame. Stoick continued, "Yes, I know most of you are worried about you family. But we are vikings. We don't back down from a fight. Now who's with me." Every viking in the room shouted and the teens still watched on.

Stoick quieted everyone one again. "Before we enter this war fully, we need to know what we are against. So Ky, would you like o enlighten us."

Ky now stepped on the table next to Stoick. "Well, Valenheim is a village located at the coast of the main land. It is one of the largest towns of the main land. I am just going to get to the point, their navy slightly outnumbers yours by about 2 dozen ships but this army is about 4 times the population of Berk." There were some gasps from hearing that. But Ky continued. "But with the dragons, they wouldn't be quite a threat. But they are allied with about 15 other villages. As I can count, they have a total of 35,000 vikings. Also including that are all dragon killers." Ky now turned to Stoick. "You have to call all of you allies, Valenheim is known for... Taking out villages in the process of conquering their enemy."

Stoick thought for a second. He then brightened. "I may get word around when ya teens competing in the Viking Arena Games."

"It sounds like are best bet."

"Since this is over, ya may leave with da others." Ky walked thought the masses of people to reach the the doors so he could leave. The others left right behind him and closed the doors.

Even though it seems like they were only in their for a couple minutes, the sun was setting. Ky mounted his dragon who was napping only a couple of seconds ago. He took off before any of the teens could speak and words to him. He was heading out high up and into the clouds. He did the only thing he could think of. "AHHHHHHHHHHHHH!" He only screamed until his lungs were burning from the lack of oxygen. He slumped forward and his dragon made a sound of worry. Ky looked up and saw his dragon also give him a look of worry. "I don't know how they found us, or even why they decided to. Just when I was getting use to this new life and started to fit in a-

"Hey, are you alright." He lifted his head up to see who it was. The person he least expected to follow him was riding right beside him. "What are you doing up here?"

Ruff looked right back at him. "Just seeing if you are fine. You seemed to be in a hurry to leave. We never got to say anything." Ky only looked at her briefly before turning forward again.

"I brought war along with me to your village-

"That wasn't your fault, Stoick decided to save you for the price of war. Anyways you shouldn't worry about that now. We are here for you. We are all in this together."

Ky took a deep breath and his expressions brightened. "I guess your right. I do have to say, your not much like your brother."

Ruff could only laugh at this. "Well it hasn't always been like that. Will you come back down?" He only made a gesture for her to lead them back to the village.

"Thank you for coming after me. You cleared my thoughts better than I would have by myself."

"Hey what are friends for."

* * *

>The Next Day

It was already late morning and you could hear sound of frustration coming from an open field. Hiccup was the on making the sounds as he was getting frustrated with everything he did. "Come on Hiccup, your not trying hard enough."

Hiccup turned his attention to Ky. "How about you try and throw on of these." He held up a tomahawk. Ky walk right over to Hiccup and took it right out of his hand. He turned his attention over to a tree about 60 feet away and threw it with great precision that it stuck right into the bark. He turned back to Hiccup with a raised brow. "Show off."

Ky was now pinching his nose. "Really, I've kept you away from the heavy stuff like war hammers and broadswords. Even Astrid and Ruffnut offered to help." He was now pointing over to the two girls. Astrid had her ax slung over he should while Ruffnut was resting her spear on the ground. Ky had a big crate of weapons Gobber was kind enough to let him use. He was looking through it and pulled out a one sided ax. He took it over to Hiccup and handed it to him. "Astrid, I'm taking a break. How about you observe him for a bit and see how he does with this weapon."

Astrid and Ky switched placed as Ky sat on a boulder that was by Ruff. He watched Hiccup do his best as he swung the ax with more flaws than he could count. He took a deep breath and laid back on the boulder. Ruff looked over at him. "Hey, are you alright. You seem quite stressed."

He breathed in deeply. "I don't know what he should use. His shield is a great defensive with is changing into a crossbow but we need a major offensive."

"Yeah. He isn't good with a spear. And I have a feeling he won't be good with an ax." They turned their attention back to Hiccup who was laying on the ground after being tripped by Astrid. He got back up ready to strike but Astrid kick the ax straight at Ky and Ruff. Ky caught it by the handle before it could strike either of them and he was glaring at the two.

"I will put ax under 'hell no' for you to have." He brought it back to the crate of weapons. He looked though the weapons even more until his eyes widened by a weapon and he pulled it out. It was a short sword that was about 2.5 feet and Ky pulled it out of its holster and them metal was extremely shinny. But the best part about it, it was light. He flicked it from one hand to the other. He then put it back in its holster and flung it towards Astrid. "What do you think of this?"

"It's way too light. It wouldn't hold up." He chuckled as he grabbed a block of iron and took the sword back as he handed Astrid the block. She held it out as he unsheathed the sword and swung it down cutting a good 3/4th's into it. He pulled it out showing no dents in the sword.

"Not all strength comes from weight. Just like my swords. And by the look of this blade, it is not viking made. This is Roman by the looks of it." He gave it to Hiccup who tested the weight. "I'm wondering where Gobber got a hand on those blades. Anyways, the weapon should be light enough not to make you stumble and loose you footing and I could help you strengthen your form easily now. But for this moment, practice your form on that tree with the hatchet."

-break-

Hiccup had been striking the tree for what was now and hour and his arm was now tired. Ky came up right behind him. "Well it seems you naturally strengthened your attacks. Now lets see how you fend against an opponent." He pulled out one of his two swords and got in a ready position as Hiccup did the same. "Remember Hiccup, this is a dual so I can see how you fight. I'm not going to truly fight you."

Ky then motioned for them to begin and for him to make the first strike. Hiccup walked up cautiously and stroked towards Ky which was met by another blade. He pulled back and they were both getting into the match as the sounds were bouncing off of the trees the girls were watching the dual take place and wouldn't blink in fear of something was going to happen. Ky gave a more intense look and they rested in one of the hits. "You seem to be hesitant to strike, that will be one thing your opponent won't share."

Ky then hit his weapon against Hiccups' and hit it to the side in which caused Hiccup to loose a grasp on it. Ky then pointed his weapon towards Hiccup. "If your hesitant, you make an opening for me to make a fatal blow on you." Ky put his weapon back in its holster and walked over to the sword Hiccup was using. He picked it up and gave it back to him. "We will continue tomorrow. I'm sure you will be ready for the games when they come."

* * *

>It was the morning for the teens to leave for the Viking Arena Games (an not the greatest name I have ever come up with). The sun hasn't rose yet and they decided to leave then so that they would make it to the island by mid-afternoon. There was only 6 of the viking competing in this event, only because Fishlegs said he isn't great with the 'fighting part' but he decided to watch his fellow peers compete in it. Others that were coming on the ship with them was Stoick, with him being chief and all, Gobber, Spitelout, and some other vikings that were only their to work the ship.

For the past week or so, Ky had trained Hiccup vigorously in fighting with a sword. He trained both of his arms with it, even though one of them felt weird for him to use the weapon with. He even received many cuts from Ky when they were doing one of their dual's. Ky said it was him not paying attention. Anyway, Ky molded him enough so he would at least be great competition against the other fighters.

Well they were packing up crates full of fish and dried meat and all of the things they may need for the trip. But the group was slightly sad that they wouldn't be able to bring their dragons along with, even though they knew the reasons why. To start off, there wasn't enough room for the ship to carry them, the vikings their were still at war with dragons. And if that wasn't the problem then this surely would be, Dagur was going to be their and seeing as one of them has a Night Fury and a Skrill, it was in best consideration that they don't bring them.

The boat was finally loaded by all they cranky tired viking teens and they were now saying their goodbye's to their dragons. Hiccup walked up to Toothless and he seemed to be slightly pouting. "Bud I know your upset but we can't bring you because it would be too risky. And the Hofferson's were generous enough to take you and even Stormshadow in while we are gone. So at least you will have their company."

Toothless still had a sad expression and Hiccup took in a deep breath. "When we come back, I will give you a big basket of your favorite kinds of fish and we will go for a long ride. How does that sound?"

Toothless's expression instantly lightened and lightly butted his head into Hiccup's stomach. And Hiccup hugged him around his neck.

Now Ky was checking if his blades had any flaws in it from the beating it received from the many duals with Hiccup until something pushed into Ky's back. Ky turned around to see what was bothering him only to see the depressed expression on his dragon. His features lightened as he patted his head. "I know we haven't really separated since our arrival here, but I'm sure the Hofferson family will take good care of you."

His dragon gave a light huff while he turned away. Ky still patted his head. "Will you at least try to be strong for me." Stormshadow turned back to back to face his rider and gave a light sound as in saying that he will. "Good, we should be back in 5 days or so. Then I will see you again" He turned away from his dragon and started to walk towards his ship right behind Hiccup and the other riders were saying their goodbyes. Snotlout seemed to even be crying, even though he denied it.

They all finally got on the boat and unattached the ropes holding the boat to the dock. Stoick gave Spitelout the signal for them to set sail. They pushed off of the dock and started to move forward and Toothless was following the boat until the dock ran out of view and he made a small sound of sadness. The group of teens looked back once more at their dragons.

They all seemed in a down mood until they all realized what they were going to be doing tomorrow. Snotlout seemed very set on the idea that he was going to win it all because 'he is the best viking around'. Everyone just ignored him when he was making himself feel better. Ky was still looking back at Berk as it dissipated into the distance. Hiccup was the one to grab his shoulder as he still looked back. "Don't worry, I'm sure he misses you just as much as you miss him."

"Yeah, but we are like brothers in arms. Meant to be inseparable. Is that how you feel with Toothless?"

"Of Course, but that is how it should feel to everyone. But some bonds are stronger than others. You probably just have one of the stronger ones."

Ky could only shake his head in agreement. He turned back around to see Astrid and Ruffnut talking, Tuff and Snotlout arm-wrestling (I know, what a surprise), and Fishlegs was reading through the Dragon Manual and was seemingly adding to it. Ky walked over to the two guys that were arm-wrestling and look down to see that Tuff was defeated pretty quickly. "Damn Tuff, I've defeated you like ummmm 6 times."

"No, That's like the 3rd time. You can't count." Fishlegs came over to split the two up before it got ugly. Ky stepped forward to Snotlout. "How about I try a round against you."

Snotlout looked at Ky and only laughed. "I do have to say you have more muscle than Hiccup or Tuff. But you have nothing against this." He flexed his muscles and kissed each of them.

"Then what are you afraid of?" That stopped his... romantic time with his own body and he wore a serious face. "Fine, lets show who is the strongest here."

They both laid down on their stomachs and put out their right hands for the other person to grab. Tuffnut signaled for them to start and it seemed that Snotlout was winning as he was pushing Ky's hand down to the wooden deck. But there was a shift in wrist position on Ky's part and he was making the position go back to the mid-ground. Then it was being pushed even more until both of the competitors looked into each others eyes. Snotlout was trying his hardest to give it a last effort and Ky was mildly straining but still pushed through until Snotlout's hand hit the deck.

When they looked up there was a surprised Hiccup and Tuff was even more so. Ky looked over to Snotlout next to see that he was, well, made would be an understatement. He was furious. "Might as well get to the point before you all ask. Arm-wrestling is about strategy and strength. Seeing that Snotlout was the stronger opponent I turned to strategy and I seemed to beat him. And I did all of that with the twist of a wrist."

He got up off of his stomach and dusted himself off. He looked up at the sky and saw that the sun was slightly peaking over the horizon. He noticed that he was still slightly fatigued and rest would do him well. Ky walked over to the mast and laid back against it looked at the teens as they talked with one another until his eye slowly closed until he was fully asleep.

* * *

>And that is a wrap. I hope you all are enjoying my writing. I may not be as you call 'a professional', but I still get by. Remember to leave comment and what not, because I love reading what you have to say about my story (except flames).

Favorite, Follow, and Review my story!

The Dragon King

10. Chapter 10

*I would like to start off with saying thank you. The views have been higher than they have been in the past. I would also like to thank the review I received and what the guest said was something that gives me motivation. And I will try to fix the grammar problem. I also took a break from writing, as some of you have noticed.

Anyways enjoy.

* * *

>Ky could hear the shuffling of men's feet on the wood deck that began to wake him. He could also see Stoick shouting commands at the men as they ran vigorously from one side to the other. Ky looked off of the bow of the boat to see a large island in the distance that was slightly covered in fog. The harbor on the island was enormous in that it was a maze of wood and many ships of different variation and different symbols were already docked.

Ky got up from his laying position and stretched his back which in return made a few pops. He then made his way over to Hiccup who seemed to be also looking out to sea. He then got up next to Hiccup and Hiccup filled Ky in a bit. "We are only 30 minutes away from disembarking. We are to then going to find our housing for the days that we stay here which is today, tomorrow, and the the day after before we leave 4 days from now."

"Did Stoick tell you this?" Ky was curious where Hiccup got this information.

"Yep. And the Games starts tomorrow so we still have time to train me a bit."

Ky looked back at Hiccup. "I don't know. You seem to fight well with the sword. We just need to work on your ferocity a tad."

Hiccup nodded and they looked at the ever approaching shore line. They both seemed to be deep in thought until their group formed up behind them. They were all silent until it was Snotlout who spoke up. "How many people do you think will be there."

Fishlegs answered this as he too looked at the island. "Hundreds of competitors. They last from dusk to dawn and fight within an arena split into four sections to fight within."

"Well Its going to take a lot more to take this down." Everyone looked back at Snotlout with a dead expression. "What did I say?"

They all groaned while turning back to the island ignoring his obvious arrogance. Ky and Hiccup looked towards the island once again. Ky had something on his mind since getting on the ship. "So you spoke about someone who was going to be here. Dagur, isn't it?"

Hiccup gave a slight frown at this. "Why are you asking about him?"

Ky answered back not noticing Hiccups distress. "You said he was one of the reasons that the dragons couldn't come. Why is that?"

"Well for starters, he is completely insane which is why he is called Dagur the Deranged. Next, he wants Toothless as a trophy."

"Well the is just Toothless, what about the other dragons?"

Hiccup looked straight at Ky now. "He would kill the other dragons for game. All except yours."

Ky quickly turned his gaze at Hiccup. "Why would he not attack

Stormshadow?"

"He is a Berserker. Their symbol is the Skrill. He would have it lead his army to seize the Archipelago. He is extremely obsessed about them."

"O... Good think we didn't bring Stormshadow then."

Hiccup gave a small snort as if something were funny. "You mean good thing we didn't bring any dragons."

They turned back and decide to join their group since Stoick was shouting commands at the crew as they enter the docks. They tied up ship and started to unload the ship and one viking that seemed to be worn down by many hours of work approached Stoick. Stoick turned to his direction and they both shook hands before the viking flipped through several sheets of paper before pulling out one and handing it to Stoick. They spoke for a second before the viking turned away and was heading to the next boat that was docking.

"Well we are heading to the hall here after we finish unloading and taking this to our home for the 5 days. Understood?"

Everyone made a sound that they heard him and they started to load up on their belonging and head to the place they would be staying.

* * *

>Ky looked up at their home, and words to describe it would be to call it a lodge. It was massive, about 3 times the size of the Chiefs house on Berk. Walking up to the door, the group noticed it was a double door entrance that held the Berk crest on it signifying that this was a Berk residency. Stoick passed the group and enter the home. The inside was filled with decorations of weapons and shields, a fireplace was in the middle of the room. There were a couple of wooden benches lining the walls and their three doorways from the massive room. Stoick placed three large boxes that he was carrying down on the ground and started to unload some foods that were in the boxes.

The rest of the group started to explore the place opening the doors in the place. Snotlout went to the doorway to the far end of the room and enter the room to only see it was storage for food. Fishlegs and the Twins went to the next door to see that it was a wash area enough to fit 4 people, and the door was even lockable. Last Ky, Hiccup, and Astrid found the beds and a staircase that led to the upstairs area which they started to climb to only find it was a very large room with one king sized bed in it. They went back down to the other bedroom which they guessed they would be sharing. The rest of the teens made it into the room.

"Well aren't we lucky guys, we get to sleep with the ladies." When those words escaped Snotlouts lips, Ky, who was next to him, took a couple steps away from him. Everyone looked at him with creeped out looks, even Tuffnut looked kind of anxious.

"Dude, one of those 'ladies' happens to be my sister." Tuffnut now looked a little angry at him.

Ruffnut was now in front of him with threatening looks. "And who said you're sleeping with us, we are only in the same room."

Everyone was now lashing at him with words and he was slowly sinking into himself. Ky and Hiccup were the only ones not paying attention to this and Ky soon motioned for them to leave. As they left, they noticed Stoick was gone. Most likely went to the hall in which they should head there too. They exited the building and Ky started to laugh hysterically. Hiccup looked at him like he had just lost his mind. Ky then looked back up to Hiccup finishing his laughing fit with a smile still on his face. "I'm sorry, that must have looked weird. But how stupid Snotlout is sometimes is beyond funny."

"Well its not really amusing."

Ky started walking away while Hiccup started to catch up again. "You only think that because you and Astrid are going out. I would probably think the same thing if I were in your shoes." They continued to look through the crowds of people as they trudged through the town. The place was absolutely huge, probably 3 times the size of Berk. There was a cliff from the other side of the docks and there was a small opening in it that looked like the cliff was sliced. The Hall was close to it being about 100 meters away from the opening and it was decorated with many cloths and torches ran up the stairs leading up to the giant doors. Large amounts of people were entering the doors and they followed them all.

When they got close enough to look in, they were quite surprised at the size of the hall. Surprised isn't the right word, more like the air from their lungs were taken from them. The room was so massive that it possibly had its own weather system. The torches that were on the walls and the columns weren't enough to light the room. They made their way into the room to see Stoick talking to Mogadon, the Meatheads' Chief and ally of Berk. They were both sharing a drink while they sat at the Chiefs table.

Hiccup and Ky just sat down at a table that was closest to them and waited for something to happen. Many more vikings were filing into the hall and even their group walked up with everyone still with slight scowls on their faces from what Snotlout said earlier. Astrid sat by Hiccup and grabbed his hand and he gave a small, reassuring squeeze to her hand. Ruffnut sat by Ky and just laid her head on the table due to her exasperation earlier. Ky patted her on the back showing that he was empathetic towards her feelings.

About 5 minutes later, the chiefs welcomed everyone. Dagur was also at the Chiefs table with a wicked smile directed at Hiccup which sent shivers down everyone's backs, except for Ky because he doesn't know what they have experienced from him.

Mogadon was the one to stand up and speak, "Welcome, we are so glad to be able to continue peace between the Archipelago by holding this event. It will_"

Ky started to zone him out and looked towards Hiccup, "I didn't know this even kept peace between the tribes."

Hiccup now turned towards Ky. "Well, it's kind of peace. In a way that major war doesn't break out. We all still fight in small battles though."

Ky nodded and continued to zone in and out as each chief spoke some words regarding the games. And what Dagur said really made everyone uneasy by how he can't wait to start the bloodshed. Yet everyone just ignored it after a couple unsure looks from even the chiefs themselves. Anyway, everyone started to clap when the speeches were done and the drinking and celebrating started. The teens left after grabbing food, well except for Snotlout and Tuffnut because they wanted a good drink.

The rest of the group went outside and enjoyed the cooling outside temperatures and the lowering sun. Ky now looked at Hiccup. "When will Stoick talk to the other tribes about our situation?"

Hiccup thought about it for a second. "I think he was going to tell them the night before we leave. So in that case it won't conflict with the games."

After that was said Dagur walked right in front of them. "Well well well well well. Isn't it my favorite group in the world."

Astrid snarled in his direction. "What do you want?"

Dagur seemed to laugh at her attempts. "All I want to do is talk. Is that such a bad thing. O and possibly give you some- cuts before the games."

Ky was the one to now stand up against the lunatic. "How about you get moving before I do something that you will regret."

Dagur now turned to this unknown person with a smile. "And what could you possibly do?"

Ky started to raise his voice in anger. "Throwing you off that cliff would be a great start!"

Dagurs' smile disappeared as he started to move towards Ky and Ky got in stance just in case things got ugly. Before Dagur was even 3 meters away from Ky, a booming voice came from the doors of the hall. "Is everything alright out here?" They all turned to see Mogadons' form standing in the light of the hall. Dagur gave a smile towards the Meathead Chief before glaring at Ky and walking back into the hall.

The group continued walking before Fishlegs spoke. "How could you possibly stand up to someone like that?"

Ruffnut then added, "Yeah, that was quite... enticing if you were to ask me."

disregarded her comment while continuing on their way. "I've met his kind before. He may seem intimidating but he is nothing but a coward, hiding in the shadows. All you have to do is hold your ground against him." The group started to chat about what was to come the next morning.

* * *

>There was a horn as the island was awakening from slumber and for some, a hangover. Tuff and Snotlout both were complaining about the sound while Astrid, who was already up, said the they would be complaining when she would shove her foot up their ass. Hiccup gave a chuckle at this and Ky was silent as he put on his torso armor and strapped his curved swords on his back. Stoick soon came into the room after he was creaking on his way down the stairs. "If you lads and lassies don't stop the ruckus, I will move you to the ship and the crew to this room."

Everyone stopped their shenanigans and continued to get ready for the tournament. Hiccup was strapping the sword to his hip Ky came over to him. "Are you ready to show that you can fight with a sword just as well as you fly a dragon?"

"Absolutely."

Ky gave a small smile and once everyone was ready, they headed out the doors and followed the crowds through the split in the cliff. They continued to walk as torches lit the way to the arena, or as I should say, arenas. They made it passed the cliff to see 8 arenas making a ring so the spectators could witness all the fights at the same time. All the arenas were the same design as the one on Berk except there was 2 entrances for each competitor to enter. Each arena was also watched by each chief acting as a referee in a sense (except for Dagur).

The group continued walking and reached a bulletin which had each of the times for the competitors. Ky scanned the list to see that he was in the 4th arena against a male named Advar. Ky continued to his arena and the rest of the group looked at the list to see when and where they were. Hiccup and Astrid were the only other ones competing at that time and they headed to their arenas to go to their matches.

POV Ky

Ky walked into his arena and the sun was about to peak over the cliff. Ky noticed that it was the Bog-Burglars chief, Bertha, who was spectating. She was standing and giving a small speech about the games and Ky only payed half mind to it until the gate opened for him to enter. Ky scanned his opponent when he came through the gate. He was strong build, about a year or 2 older the Ky, and his weapon of choice was a Battle Axe. There was a loud gong and Bertha spoke once more. "Let the games begin!" The crowd started to go nuts as Ky and Advar drew their weapons.

Adwar made the first move as he charged and started to charge. Ky could only smile at this act. 'This is going to be fun.'

* * *

>Well that's it after so many months, well actually like 2 or 3. Anyway I hope you haven't forgotten about me because I haven't forgotten about you guys. It has been really tough and frustrating trying to get time to write but school work has been keeping me from doing so. So I officially apologize. Anyway, don't forget to favorite and even follow. But I live the feed back more than ever so leave a comment andor a review. See you next time... Which can range in time.

The Dragon King

11. Chapter 11

I hope all of you are enjoying this story, I can't really tell since of the lack of reviews. But no matter, the show must go on.

* * *

>There was the sound of metal hitting against rock as sparks flew up from the ax hitting the ground. Ky had already jumped to the side as Advar had struck the ground where Ky was standing just moments ago. Ky didn't even counterattack since he felt a little sympathy for the brute as the ax got stuck in the stone. 'Did he strike with that much force' Ky thought to himself.

Advar pulled the ax from the ground and got into a defensive position. Ky looked at him with a smirk. "My turn, is it?" Ky put his swords in their holsters ran at him and slid under his legs before Advar could strike him as he went under him and kick him in the back. Ky's opponent fell forward but caught himself before he could fully fall on the ground.

After a few more minutes of Ky dodging and 'toying' with Advar, he was on the opposite side of the arena not even breaking a sweat. On the other hand, Advar was panting while trying to pick himself once more. He turned his head to face Ky and his face was red with anger. "I will not be bested by such a little man!"

Ky gave him the 'really' look as he crossed his arms. "You shouldn't be calling me the 'little man', I am basically doing simple techniques and I am still defeating you." Advar just got more angry as he once again charged Ky with his weapon raised above his head. Ky sidestepped and put his foot out resulting in Advar tripping and falling from his own momentum. Ky got close to the wall readying for his final strike because he was obviously really bored. "Okay, forfeit and I will let you come out unscathed."

Advar just laughed. "You really think I will give up, I am going to win this thing and prove that I am better." He picked his ax up from the ground and charged Ky once again. Ky just shrugged and mumbled to himself 'as you wish'. Ky still waited for Advar to get closer until he surprised everyone when instead of running towards his opponent he ran to the wall at full speed.

Some people caught on to what he was doing and gave smirks as they knew who was going to do. Ky then got to the wall and started to run up it. He only got about 3 steps in before he jumped off with full force. He then spun around with full force and kick Advar, who was still charging, right in the side of the skull. The sound was loud as blood and spit flew out of his mouth and he fell right on the ground. He was out cold.

The crowd was quiet trying to register what happened until there was a deafening cheer. Bertha then stood from her chair. "And the winner from the Hooligan Tribe, Ky!" Ky then bowed before he exited the arena. When he got up from the arena, he was met with the entire group minus Hiccup. They all started talking at the same time saying how that last hit was just amazing. Ky looked at Astrid, "I thought you were to fight someone?"

Astrid just smiled at him. "I took him out easily and got here just in time for you to finish it, were you having trouble with him?"

Ky just laughed in her face. "I decided to try and make it at least a little enjoyable, you know trying to mess with him." They all turned and saw two vikings carrying Advar out of the arena and he still looked like he wouldn't wake anytime soon. They started to walk on wards until a person obstructed their path and it was someone they would prefer not to see.

"I have to say congratulations on your win here." Dagur gave his signature smile to them.

Ky gave a slight sneer, "What do you want?" The rest of the group gave hateful gazes.

He just laughed at their attempts. "How cute with all of your hostility. All I really wanted to say is I can't wait to make you suffer and I will truly win against the likes of you."

Ruffnut beat Ky with the retort. "He will definitely kick your ass and make you run with you tail between you legs."

Dagur only smiled while moving closer to her. "I sense you hold a liking for him by the way you protect him."

She then attacked at him while Tuffnut and Astrid started to hold her back. She was kicking in his direction while he laughed and started to walk backwards. He started to yell at Ky. "I will make you suffer! You hear me! SUFFER!" He laughed at them as he disappears into the crowd. Ky kept a straight face while giving a slight nod. "What a dick."

* * *

>The group made it to arena number 6 to see that Hiccup was still fighting this large fellow that was even quite large to Stoick. They seemed quite fatigued and they stared intently at one another. To make matters worse, it was Stoick overlooking their battle and he was literally on the edge of his seat. They seemed to be at the end of their break as the traded a couple strikes and Hiccup was able to get a large gash on his arm but received a kick in the gut a a response.

They were breathing hard and Hiccup started to look around the crowd until he locked eyes with Ky. All Ky did was mouth the words 'you know what to do'. Hiccup nodded in response to this and returned his gaze to his very large opponent and slowed his breath and tried to focus on what to do. He leaned on his prosthetic and it made a slight squeaking sound. Everything then clicked as he got into body ready stance. His opponent then ran at him and he was able to block the attack that cam at him yet he was slipping. The then put all of his force into a kick that his he metal foot into the side of his opponents leg. The large guy howled in pain as he fell to the ground. Hiccup then put his sword right at the neck of his opponent. "Forfeit now."

The guy then just dropped him weapon and gave the signal that he gave up. Everyone was at a complete surprise that Hiccup was even able to fight back, but how he won, no word could be given to show how shocked everyone was. It was so quiet that Hiccup's nervous steps were heard when he pushed down on his prosthetic. There was then clapping and then a roar as the crowd approved of what happened. Hiccup walked out of the arena and was surrounded by many vikings saying 'how did you do it' and 'you made me lose a lot of money'.

Hiccup then made it to the group and they were all talking to him at the same time saying how awesome that was except for Astrid and Ky. They all finished their praising in Hiccup and Ky stood in front of him. "I have to say that was a mighty fine finish you had. You took down an opponent at least 3 times your size."

Hiccup nodded and they walked off once again to catch a break while watching the others compete which was Ruffnut, Tuffnut and Snotlout. Yet before the three who just fought went to go cheer on their friends, they wanted water and some food to fill their empty stomachs.

* * *

>The battles have just started and it seemed that Snotlout was against the hardest opponent, which was Thuggory. Yet Snotlout kept fighting. Next Ruffnut was facing a male that was fair build and seemed to be about a year or two older than her. Tuffnut was also facing a person just like the one facing Ruff, yet this one was slightly smaller in height and barely skinnier. Ky, Hiccup, Astrid and Fishlegs were able to watch all of them since they were in rings very close to one another and they were on the top of the stand in the middle of four rings. Yet the last ring contained Dagur, whom Ky was watching intently to see his form.

Hiccup then walked over to Ky and noticed him watching Dagur. "What are you doing?"

Ky then turned over to Hiccup briefly before watching the match again. "Just looking at his form, you never know when you never know who your next opponent may be."

"I know that seems like a great tactic, but you should try and give our friends support." Ky released the air in his lungs in a deep breath and nodded his head in agreement before turning over to watch the end of Snotlout's challenge. Hiccup was now in deep thought. _I think Ky is actually anxious and a bit afraid to face Dagur. I should ask him about it later. _

Just then the crowd went in a roar as the competitor fell. The group held their tongue since it was Snotlout laying on the ground. Thuggory held up his hand in a fist displaying his victory he just won. The group looked down sadly yet still turned to the other two matches to watch the twins go at it. Ruffnut was near victory as she spun her spear and landed a strike with the pole into the side of the guy's chest which he clutched. She then spun it around and hit him on the back as he was bending over with full force knocking him down to the ground. The crowd yelled in approval for the win.

Just then Snotlout walked up to them holding a block of ice to his head. He seemed quite depressed and not saying how 'he was about to win'. The group went over to him yet it was only one person who spoke. "It seems that you lost, yet don't forget that you fought with honor."

Snotlout looked up and smiled a bit to Ky who smiled back a bit. Just then Ruffnut walked up to then holding a brighter atmosphere around her. Since Snotlout was in brighter spirits, he didn't want to make the group hold a depressed feeling. He then walked up to her, "Great win, Ruff."

Hiccup went over to Ky and whispered in his ear. 'Is this the same Snotlout or did he hit his head on something'? Ky just looked over to Hiccup with a slightly amused look. Tuff then started to run over to the group and by the look of his face, he had also won. But before he could say anything the crowd made the 'ohhh' sound as if something looked like it hurt. They turned over to Dagurs match to see that he had won and that the guy whom he had face, which seemed to be just like a giant, was laying on the ground and his clothes were soaked in his blood.

The crowd was now screaming and clapping as Dagur had won. He was looking around the crowd until his eyes landed on Ky. Their eyes made contact and he began to smile wickedly until he walked out of the arena. When he was out of view, the group was now looking at Ky as they had saw what had transpired. Fishlegs wanting the vibe of the group to go away he spoke. "We should see who you guy are facing next, they should be posted now."

The rest of the group said a word in agreement except Ky who just grunted and they began to walk towards where they post the next rounds. Ky kept a good 5 ft. away from the group as he was trying to be left to his thoughts. Just then Ruffnut walked beside him holding a face of concern. "What was that back there?"

There was silence for about 10 seconds until he finally spoke when he gathered the words. "He wants to face me. And he knows I want to also. As for the stare, he was basically showing that he can't wait until that time comes."

"Well the way you looked at him back. Are you afraid of him?"

"I don't know, he seems different than what I said he was earlier. He isn't a coward, his blood lust outweighs his cowardice if he has any."

Ruff now showed concern. "Well when you do face him, don't take risks."

"I appreciate your concern, but this fight will show no bounds. I shall not hold back." He then hurried up to catch the rest of the group. Ruff expression took that of sadness. They all soon made it to the post and read down the line to see where their names were. Astrid and Hiccup found their names pretty quickly and they were to face no one that they knew which they were fine with. To their surprise, Ky was already passed to the next round and next to the bracket he was suppose to do that round only said 'no show for contender'. And Ky just grumbled something about his time won't be wasted.

Soon Tuff found his name and he was to face Thuggory, which he visibly paled when he read it because he heard what had happened to Snotlout and he was no where close to his strength or 'skill'. Yet

Ruff was the one who paled more when she read who she was facing and she was paralyzed as if time stopped. Fishlegs walked up to her. "Who are you going to compete against?" He got no reaction so he read on his own.

When he found her name and say who, his eyes grew to the size of plates. "Ummm, Guys."

Hiccup was the one to answer. "What is it Fishlegs."

"Ruffnut has to face Dagur." The whole group stood their shocked and still couldn't comprehend what he just said. No words were said and she just head to the assigned arena that she was to fight him in.

* * *

>It had been about and hour and Ky was now sitting with Hiccup and Astrid, who have just won their second match up and they were obviously showing signs of Fatigue and there was still at least two more rounds to go before daybreak. Fishlegs and Snotlout were watching the presently fighting Tuffnut in arena 1 as he faced off against Thuggory. The trio right now were waiting for Ruff's match up in arena 7. Ky was obviously showing signs of stress. Hiccup looked over to him. "Are you alright? You seem extremely tense."

"No I am not. She has to face off against someone that even I am anxious to face. What if she is harmed?"

Now Astrid looked over at him. "We know you show deep concern about her, we all do. But i believe she will be fine. And hey, she may even beat him."

Ky look forward and said something barely audible. "I hope you're right."

Just then the crowd began to clap as the two competitors enter the arena. Dagur wore his signature grin and Ruff just looked extremely serious. The chief spoke but Ky just zoned him out and his eyes connected with Ruffs just as hers connected with his. Ky gave here a small grin which was basically saying 'good luck, be careful'. She just nodded at him and the fight just broke out as the chief said it should begin.

Dagur grabbed his small ax that he always has and began to walk up to Ruff pretty casually. This brought surprise to everyone until he got close and brought the first strike to her in which she block. He then kicked out and it her straight in the gut which made her fly backwards. He then began to speak. "This is the first step to me making Berk suffer and also the blond warrior up there." He pointed, of course, to Ky.

She spoke with hate, "You will have to go through me to even touch him."

"That is the point, and I will enjoy every second of it. To make him suffer, the first step is by making an example of you." He then was walking up to her again and swung vigorously. She was doing her best to keep up the defense but it was wearing her down. He then got a successful hit on he hand and blood soon flowed down her hand and arm. He then hit the flat side of the ax against her head.

When she looked up, she was having trouble seeing. Everything looked fuzzy and she once again looked up to where Ky was. His expression was now even more stressed and the worry was now visible on his face. She shook her head to regain focus and it seemed that Dagur wasn't ready for her assault because she got a hit in his shoulder as the point of her spear went in. He took a sharp intake of air from the strike but then began to laugh hysterically. He cut the end off of her spear and pulled it out of his shoulder. There was blood on the tip and he just licked it off.

He turned his attention back to her and she was now defenseless. He kept swiping at her receiving some cuts on her arms, chest, and even legs. He then finished it by taking the ax and sticking it into her shoulder a bit. She gave a loud cry and the crowd gasped and even Hiccup, Astrid, and Ky were standing. Astrid had her hands over her mouth. Ky's world went slower as he saw her collapse on the ground. The crowd went over it soon though and they began to cheer for Dagur. Ky left the stands in a hurry followed by Hiccup then Astrid they made over to the exit of the arena just in time to see two vikings carry her off. She seemed to be bleeding a lot and she was barely conscious. Ky walked up to her and the vikings stopped briefly so he could say a few words.

She saw him and only released one tear. "I'm really sorry."

He held great sadness too. "For what, it is him who hurt you. You did the best you could."

"I could have at least done something else to prevent this-." She then passed out. The vikings began to move at a faster pace now.

Ky's face was now replaced with determination and anger. "I will defeat him and he will be the one to suffer."

* * *

>The next day finally arrived and the group was already ready for the pain that they would have to go through. They were eating silently since one of them was missing. They were all saddened but most of all was Tuffnut. It was like his other half was missing. Ky held his sadness inside him and only portrayed his anger. He only grabbed his food and began to head to the arena since everyone was already heading there. The other 5 grabbed more food before heading out after him.

There were three more rounds, this one coming up, semifinals, and then the two greatest were to fight for title in the finals. The group weaved through the crowd to catch up with Ky who was a good 20 meters ahead of them. He soon made it to the crowd as they were looking at the bracket to see who was facing who. There was a lot of sound emitted off of the vikings as they were placing bets for who was to fight who. The group soon made it to the bracket. They searched the bracket for their names and it seemed that Hiccup and Ky were to face off against one another. What made it worse was that whoever won would have the possibility of facing against Dagur in the Semifinals.

Ky now looked at Hiccup but no longer held the face of anger. "It seems that it has come to this."

Hiccup nodded and he was obviously a bit nervous. "Yep, I know."

"This will be quite the fight, but I made a promise to win against Dagur and I intend to keep it. In doing so I have to defeat you, and I will try to make sure no harm come to you." He then started to walk away.

Hiccup then said quietly, "I know, but I won't let you win easily." Little did he know, Ky heard him loud and clear.

He gave a small smile and whispered to himself, "I intend on in."

* * *

>Well that was somewhat intense. But of course I am only and amateur writer doing this for my enjoyment and hopefully yours. I wrote this for a least a couple hours before this chapter is release which was tiring. Don't forget to write a review for this because I would like to know your input on my writing so far. I also like seeing how many people favorite and follow the story after a chapter is posted. Anyways, have a great Thanksgiving to those celebrating.

REVIEW!

The Dragon King

End
file.